FEVERISH TRUMP FLOWN TO HOSPITAL FOR COVID CARE

The US President developed a low-grade fever, nasal congestion and cough following Covid diagnosis, reports said

JUST A PRECAUTIONARY MOVE: WHITE HOUSE

President Donald Trump is being administered the anti-viral drug remdesivir at the Walter Reed National Military Medical Center. Besides, the 74-year-old received a single dose of Regeneron's antibody cocktail—a treatment not yet approved by regulators. The White House said the hospitalisation, expected to last for a few days, was only precautionary

RECEIVED OXYGEN SUPPORT: REPORTS

- Trump will continue to work from the hospital's presidential suite, and is not planning to transfer authority to the Vice President
- A source close to Trump said his vital signs were "very concerning", and he briefly received oxygen support on Friday at the White House. His condition has improved since hospitalisation | P12

Trust goes to NGT for nixing power project

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

A day after a blast occurred at the Karnataka Power Corporation Ltd's (KPCL) gas-based power plant in Yelahanka, which left 15 employees with burns, members of the Yelahanka Puttenahalli Lake and Bird Conservation Trust filed an interlocutory application before the National Green Tribunal (NGT) on Saturday, requesting it to stop the power company from constructing and commissioning the 370 MW power plant.

They have also appealed to the tribunal that the environmental clearance for the project be cancelled.

Poll pressure? UP climbs down on Hathras stance

Allows parties to visit village, recommends CBI probe

MANISH ANAND @ New Delhi

A possible high-decibel elections in Bihar later this month and key byelections in Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh around the same time appear to have nudged the UP government to climb down from its apparent belligerence in the Hathras rape-and-murder case.

With the incident grabbing headlines and protests threatening to go out of hand, the UP government changed tack on Saturday, ordering a CBI probe, allowing Congress leaders Rahul and Priyanka Gandhi to visit Hathras and top state officials meeting the victim's family.

Just two days back, Rahul and Priyanka were stopped from visiting the victim's family while on Friday, a Trinamool Congress delegation was given rough treatment with member of parliament Derek O'Brien even apparently pushed to the ground when he and his team tried to force their way to Hathras.

The BJP also seems to have been unnerved by uneasy voices within. What had been spoken with much circumspection among a section of leaders was put forth bluntly by Uma Bharti, that Hathras "dented the image of the party and the UP government".

Lok Sabha MPs Manoj Tiwary and Parvesh Verma also came out against the "police high-handedness."

The Hathras victim belonged to the Dalit community and the BJP, lacking a credible Dalit face in its ranks, has been trying to build bridges with the community on the appeal of PM Narendra Modi.

Gandhis finally make it to Hathras

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

AFTER the Uttar Pradesh government allowed five-member delegations of political parties to meet the family of the Hathras rape-murder victim, Congress leaders Rahul Gandhi, Priyanka, K C Venugopal, P L Punia and Mukul Vasnik visited them on Saturday evening.

They also held a closed-door meeting with the family for around 30 minutes. While the Gandhis were proceeding to Hathras, high drama unfolded en route. There was heavy police deployment on the Delhi-Uttar Pradesh border. With a large number of Congress workers accompanying them, police reportedly used batons to disperse the crowd.

Police try to pull back Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi at the Delhi-Noida border on Saturday | SHEKHAR YADAV

According to a video circulated on social media, Priyanka Gandhi could be seen coming to rescue party workers from baton-weilding policemen. The police allowed five people, including Rahul and Priyanka, to go to Hathras.

Earlier in the day, Additional Chief Secretary (Home) Awanish Awasthi and DGP H C Awasthy visited Hathras and assured the family of quick and stern action against the culprits. During the visit, the first by high-ranking officials of the state government, both officials squatted on the ground and listened to the family patiently for about an hour. P9

SSR death was suicide: AIIMS panel

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

A panel of doctors from the All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS), Delhi, on Saturday ruled out murder in the sensational Sushant Singh Rajput death case.

The panel concluded, on the basis of forensic evidence, that the actor's death was a "clear case of suicide".

In its report to the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI), the six-member panel noted that there were no marks on the actor's body, other than a ligature mark on the neck caused by hanging.

His body and the clothes he wore at the time of his death do not bear any signs of struggle, the doctors observed. The panel did not find any trace of poison or sedative drugs in Sushant's body.

"In the toxicological examination of the viscera which had been examined here, no presence of any sedative material could be established," said an AIIMS source.

"It is a case of hanging and death by suicide," Dr Sudhir Gupta, the forensic expert who led the team of doctors said.

Sources in the CBI said the agency will now probe the abetment of suicide angle.

The AIIMS panel's finding is consistent with the autopsy report prepared by Cooper Hospital in Mumbai, soon after the actor's death, sources said. Cooper Hospital's report ascertained asphyxia due to hanging as the cause of Sushant's death.

2 jumbos electrocuted in lake on BNP fringes

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

IN perhaps the first case of electrocution at the Bannerghatta National Park (BNP) in recent times, the carcasses of two cow elephants were found floating in the Tikkakondanahalli Lake under Kodihalli range on Saturday.

"Preliminary investigation reveals that the death is due to electrocution, but the exact cause will be known when the carcasses are fished out and an autopsy is conducted. This is the first time I have seen such a case and it is the first case of electrocution in BNP in the last two years," Park Deputy Conservator of Forests S Prashanth told The New Sunday Express.

The swollen lake is on the fringes of the BNP and also abuts Ramadevarabetta and Manjunatha forest patches. Some electricity poles are near the water body and some are inside it, posing a danger.

Due to the heavy downpour this monsoon season, the Tikkakondanahalli lake water is overflowing, making matters worse. CONTINUED ON: P7

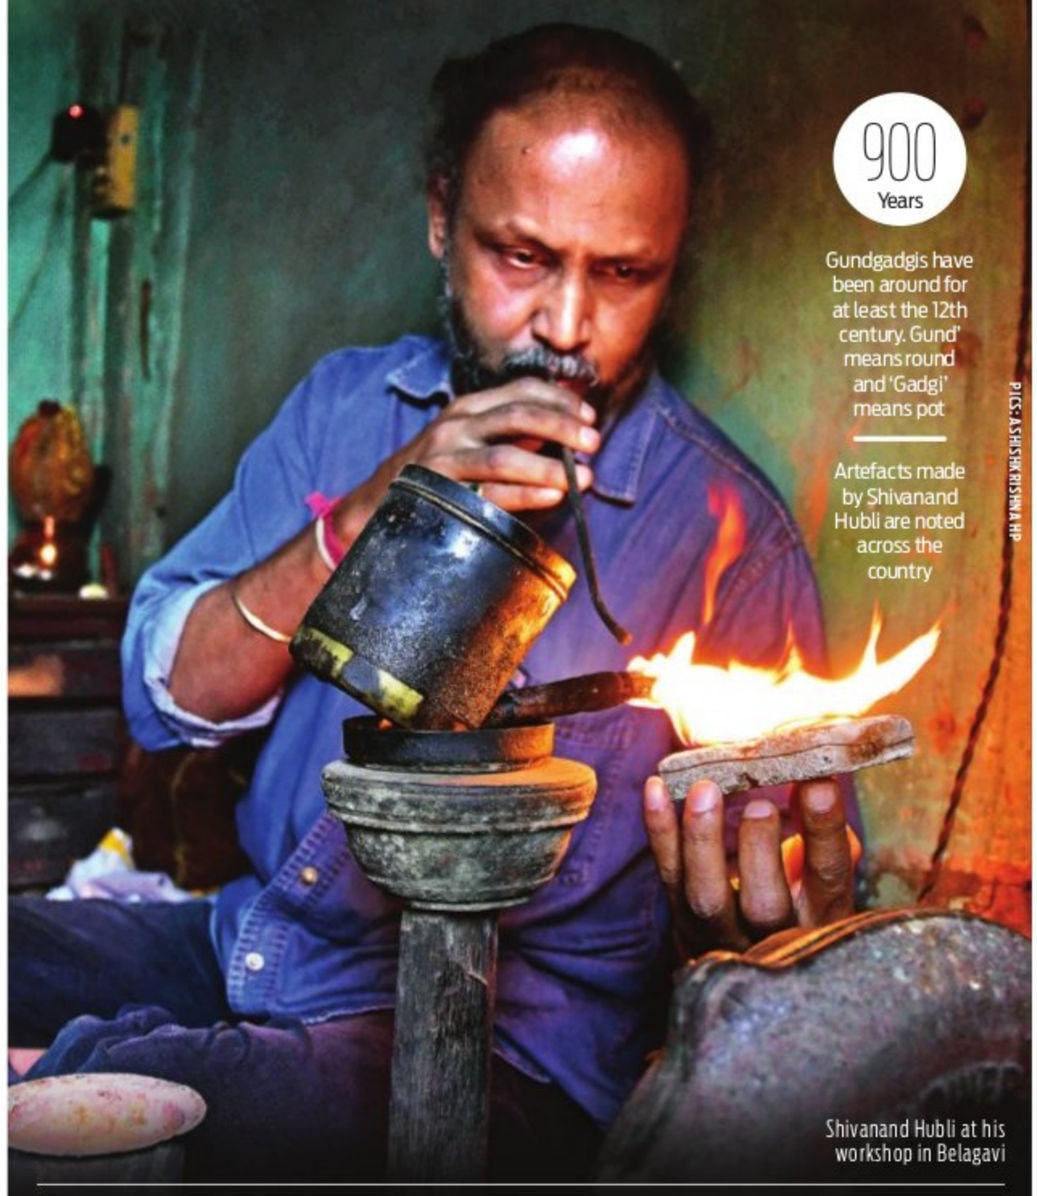
THE MIDAS TOUCH

Belagavi goldsmith is one of the few custodians of this craft, using simple tools to make gold gundgadgis



900 Years

Gundgadgis have been around for at least the 12th century. Gund' means round and 'Gadgi' means pot

Artefacts made by Shivanand Hubli are noted across the country

PICS: ASHISHK RISHNA HP

Shivanand Hubli at his workshop in Belagavi

TUSHAR A MAJUKAR @Belagavi

"GOLD is Gold," goes a well-known proverb. Literally, the preservation of a unique craft passed on from one generation to the next, is as precious as the yellow metal. Just as the art of making a traditional gundgadgi out of gold is a rare skill known to a few goldsmiths. They have been accomplishing it the traditional way sans any technology for years now.

Today, gundgadgis are mostly made of silver. While machines have hastened the process of making them both in silver and gold, a generation of goldsmiths, however, do their work with absolute devotion, fashioning exquisite gundgadgis using simple methods. Such is the sacrament of a gundgadgi that it's a prayer for the goldsmiths creating them.

Gundgadgis have been around for at least 900 years. According to Dr Sarjoo Katkar, an expert in Lingayat studies, when Basaveshwara established the Lingayat tradition in the 12th century, he mandated every Lingayat to wear an Ishtalinga. Since the Linga was to be protected from the elements, the gundgadgi, which resembles a round pot, was introduced to cover the former. 'Gund' means round and 'Gadgi' means pot.

While passing through Jed Galli in Shahapur, Belagavi, one can see Shivanand Jagannath Hubli at work. The 53-year-old goldsmith is one of the few custodians of this craft, using simple tools to make gold gundgadgis.

Sitting on his workshop floor, Shivanand hammers at a piece of gold to mould it to a required shape and size. He says that while there are goldsmiths making gundgadgi out of silver, at least 90 per cent of their work involves machines. "Some goldsmiths also make gundgadgis from gold with the help of machines, but their finished product is not as perfect as handmade," he adds.

The gundgadgis made by Shivanand are noted across the country. Most of his customers are jewellery shop owners, who usually contact him to place orders, and also provide him with the required raw gold pieces. He then works on those pieces and provides the finished product, for which he gets paid.

One of the major aspects of making a gold gundgadgi by hand is the amount of work involved. The laborious process could take days, and there is no margin for error. It's nothing short of perfection. Shivanand himself takes between three and four days to make one gundgadgi. Also, the special tools needed are rarely available at most markets, resulting in goldsmiths themselves having to produce them.

The Hublis have spent three generations making gold gundgadgis. Karveerappa Veerappa Hubli, Shivanand's grandfather started making gold gungadgis, which was continued by his son Jagannath, and later on by Shivanand.

There are five types of gundgadgis – Shahapurimath, Devangerimath, Ishwarkai, Lingatkai and Chawka – each with its own design. While it is common for most Lingayats to wear silver gundgadgis, a few well-to-do devotees prefer golden gundgadgis.

With every varying design, the requirement of gold also varies. Shivanand says that the gold needed for a Lingatkai is 9 grams, Devangerimath (15 grams), Shahapurimath (17.5 grams), and Ishwarkai (20 grams), while for Chawka it is 100 grams. "A Lingatkai of 9 grams is the lightest gundgadgi made by me, while a Chawka of 170 grams has been the heaviest," he says.

But despite the differing weight, each hand-made golden gundgadgi comes with its own Midas Touch, of those pious hands that have etched its surface with devotion.

Some goldsmiths also make gundgadgis from gold with the help of machines, but their finished product is not as perfect as handmade

Raghavendra keeps a watchful eye at a training session | UDAYSHANKAR S

NSS officer helps aspirants make their way to the Army

KARTHIK K K @Mysuru

AT the age of 18, he cleared the interview at a recruitment rally held in Bengaluru to join the armed forces but was rejected for having a dental issue. He was dejected for not being able to get the opportunity to serve the nation. But this did not make him give up his dream, today he finds satisfaction in offering free training to hundreds of young army aspirants, mostly from the rural areas, and helping them join the armed forces.

Meet Dr R Raghavendra (39), a native of Baburayanakoppalu village in Srirangapatna of Mandya district, who has trained hundreds of army aspirants in the last seven years. Raghavendra continued his studies, completed M.PEd, did his Ph.D. in sports, and served as physical education teacher and NSS officer in several colleges.

With the word spreading about his offer of free training, nearly 30-40 people enrol themselves every year and are trained by him.

As the clock strikes 5 in the morning, at least 20 army aspirants throng the Srirangapatna taluk stadium where Raghavendra equips them to clear in the rigorous selection procedures at the army recruitment rally.

Raghavendra, who is currently serving as NSS programme officer at Seshadripuram Degree College in Mysuru, not only helps the aspirants with the physical exercises and trains them to run long distances in a short time, but also helps them prepare for the written test and provides them the necessary study materials spending money from his pocket.

At least 10 of his students are recruited in different forces including a regiment of Artillery, MRC regiment, ASC regiment in various ranks.

Vitthal, who currently works at the Army Service Corps (ASC), Bengaluru, says that the training and guidance provided by Raghavendra helped him get recruited.

Perumal C, who has been appointed as a para commando at the Artillery centre in Maharashtra, attributes his success to Raghavendra. "I underwent rigorous training under Raghavendra for four years. He motivated me to participate in the recruitment rally and prepared me well in advance. I received my appointment order sometime ago, but due to the Covid-19 situation, I have been asked to join duty this month," he said.

Besides Army training, Raghavendra also gives assistance to those preparing for police, forest and RPF recruitments. With new opportunities for women aspiring to join the Indian Army, several girls are also getting trained by him.

Most of them are motivated and strong, I am just giving them the right direction to reach their goal," says Raghavendra.

Govt sets ball rolling on BBMP ward delimitation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE State Government on Saturday set in motion the process of delimitation of wards under the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike by issuing a gazette notification on the amendment to the Karnataka Municipal Corporations Act, 1976.

The amendment was passed in the just-concluded legislature session and Governor Vajubhai Vala has given his assent to the Karnataka Municipal Corporations (Third Amendment) Act 2020, on October 1. The notification says that the State Government shall constitute a delimitation commission, consisting of such number of members as may be prescribed, to recommend the state government the manner of delimitation of wards. "...the corporation shall consist of such number of councillors not less than 225, but not more than 250 councilors as the government may, by notification determine," the notification says.

Further, it says, "In respect of BBMP, the State Government, shall, by notification, divide the city into wards in such a manner that the area of wards, as far as possible, shall be within the jurisdiction of an assembly constituency and no ward shall be divided between assembly constituencies."

B'luru's underworld biggest drugs supplier in late 1970s-80s

We want to send a strong message to drug traffickers, peddlers and pushers that Bengaluru is beyond their bounds. We will break the supply chain of banned narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances in the city (Bengaluru). Seizure of over three tonnnes of ganja in less than a month proves that the police will bust all sources of illegal drugs. Nobody will be spared

— Senior police officer

Drug abuse has increased by leaps and bounds, particularly among youth. Police enforcement has to be proactive as one cannot expect complaints to be received at the police stations as it is, in a sense, a victimless crime. So the crux is to collect intelligence about transportation, storage, trafficking and sale. A quality NDPS case is one where kingpins are apprehended. Consumers are soft targets and catching them will not solve the drug menace. Police have to hit the source

— ST Ramesh, former DG&IGP, Karnataka

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

THE seizure of over 3 tons of ganja by the Central Crime Branch (CCB) and the arrest of more than 15 people under the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances (NDPS) Act has raised serious concerns on the widespread use of banned drugs in the City. The arrested include Sandalwood actors Ragini Dwivedi and Sanjjanaa Galrani, event manager Viren Khanna and two foreigners.

But old Bengalureans say that drugs were known in college campuses and entertainment circles as early as the late 1970s. Smack (heroin) was available for Rs 30 for a quarter gram and addicts could choose from a variety of now-banned amphetamine and methaqualone tablets, known as "uppers" and "downers" to customise their mood.

Recalling Bengaluru of the decade between mid 1970s and late 1980s, a recovering addict said narcotic drugs were available and there were people from college students to music, entertainment professionals and some others, who did drugs.

"There were opium dens in some slums in the City, like in Shivajinagar and on JC Road. The dens enjoyed the protection of the underworld, which was one of the biggest suppliers of drugs to the City. Koli Fayaz, the dreaded underworld don of Bengaluru in the mid 1980s, and some other gangsters – Chikkat Fayyaz, Basha etc – used to supply drugs, often on credit to loyal customers. Koli Fayaz's links with the Mumbai underworld are well documented and it was through this channel that drugs were made available to users in Bengaluru," said another recovering addict.

BIG PICTURE

Smack or heroin was available for Rs 100 per gram. "It was called gard. The hankering addicts would ask the others — "Gard hai kya (do you have smack?)," he added.

The easy availability of heroin in India between the late 1970s and late 1980s was also a consequence of the regional conflict in South Asia with the Mujahideen in Afghanistan and Pakistan pushing heroin into India from the northern borders to the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) in the South as part of narco terrorism and fund raising. The LTTE were heavily into drug smuggling to augment their armed struggle against Sri Lanka. From a transit route, India within no time became a prominent hub of narcotic drugs.

Recalling the role of the City police in handling drugs, the name of the then assistant commissioner of police Jayaram cropped up prominently among old Bengalureans. "ACP Jayaram would let go the first-time offenders with a warning that if he found them doing drugs the second time, he would arrest them and send them to jail. Around the time when the NDPS Act came, many drug addicts including some foreigners were incarcerated and they died in jail. It was a non-bailable offence. Some of them, who had gone deep into drugs, committed suicide," said a recovering addict.

"Drug addiction is the biggest pandemic the world has been facing for decades and the road to recovery, which begins with hope, is an uphill task," he added.

Road to recovery starts with hope, says counsellor Raman Iyer

I started doing drugs when I was 16. This was in 1976. I stopped in 1987 and have been clean since then. I am a recovering addict. I had just finished school from a well-reputed educational institution in Bengaluru and there were ample opportunities to take my formal education and music studies overseas. But I lost those to my addiction. In Class 9, I had suffered a lot of emotional trauma. It left me scarred. I had a drink of rum and Coke with friends and felt relieved from my pain. I was into music and it helped me cope with my failings. I was introduced to 'downers' and other drugs by my musician friends, which made me feel numb and euphoric depending on what substance I had used. Before I knew I was deep into my addiction. India was a haven to the hippie and ganja smoking 'yogi' culture in the mid and late 1970s and that had a tremendous impact on the youth.

Bengaluru had opium dens and we used to go there. They were patronised by the underworld. I used to earn money through music. Later, I even rented out a portion of my house to my friends. I used to buy drugs with the rent. 'Chasing' smack destroyed my rational thinking. I began losing my friends in the drug circle, some were arrested under the NDPS Act and incarcerated. They died in prison. Some committed suicide. I felt lonely and realised that I had a problem. I was admitted to a drug recovery and rehabilitation centre for a month. I went back to drugs after being relieved from there. I tried again a couple of times through clinics. I wanted to stop and realised that I was using drugs against my willpower.

One night I dreamt that I had died. It was a wake-up call for me. There was no choice for me but to stop drugs. The road to recovery starts with hope. I had supportive parents and they helped me find a solution. I spent six months in a community of recovering addicts in the City and that changed my life. I stopped doing drugs in 1987 and have been clean since then. I owe it to the support from this community with whom I am in touch on a daily basis. I am trained in counselling and psychotherapy. I am a saxophonist and travel the world with my music shows. I also organise recovery events and counsel recovering addicts. I have a daughter who I feel I have brought up like a responsible parent. I look after my aged mother. My father died happily in the knowledge that I was drug free. I have found a new way of life.

(As told to Bala Chauhan by Raman Iyer, well-known musician, recovering addict and counsellor)

Post Covid, kids get diabetes too

Docs worried; virus stops body from producing insulin

IFFATH FATHIMA @Bengaluru

DOCTORS in Bengaluru have come across cases of children, who have developed diabetes after contracting Covid-19.

In a person with Type 1 diabetes, the body doesn't produce enough insulin which breaks down sugar and turns it into energy.

Dr Srikanta J T, a consultant of paediatric pulmonology at Aster CMI Hospital told TNIE that his team has seen three cases of children developing diabetic ketoacidosis (DKA), a life-threatening build-up of acid in the blood.

Dr Srikanta said there is evidence to suggest that SARS-CoV-1 may have entered the pancreas through the ACE2 receptor and damages the pancreatic beta islet cells which produce insulin. This can cause transient or new-onset of Type 1 diabetes.

The long-term effects on child ren's health are a cause for concern, said Dr Yogesh Gupta, paediatrician at Fortis Hospital, Banngerghatta Road.

"We have found Type 1 diabetes in children after a Covid infection. It can cause long-term morbidity, mortality and can lead to poor quality of life. Since Covid-19 cases are on the rise, we may see more children with these problems."

So far, 20,008 children between the age of 0-10 years in Karnataka contracted Covid-19.

> Since Covid cases are on the rise, we may see more children with these problems

Dr Manu Chaudhary, a consultant for paediatric infectious diseases at Rainbow Children's Hospital, recently treated a 10-year-old who developed diabetes soon after she was diagnosed with Covid-19. While most children with Covid-19 are asymptomatic or have a mild infection, this child's condition turned severe, and had to be prescribed Remedesivir.

"As this is a new virus, we don't know much yet. Children who have already been diagnosed with Type 1 diabetes need to be careful as their condition could worsen (if they contract Covid-19)," Dr Chaudhary added.

DASARA ELEPHANTS IN STRICT QUARANTINE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

DASARA elephants that arrived in the city on Thursday have been put under strict quarantine to prevent them from catching coronavirus. So much so that they have not even been taken out for their weight test, which is an annual ritual.

The forest department has dropped the procedure and is strictly against any outing for the elephants and mahouts and kavadis. Deputy Conservator of Forests (Wildlife) J Alexander said they are being extra careful this time and added that elephants were already weighed while they left Veeranahosahalli in Hunsur.

On the proposal to test the pachyderms for the pandemic, veterinarian Dr Nagaraj said so far no rapid kits have been developed for testing them and added that they are consulting the Indian Veterinary Research Institute, Bengaluru.

Atal Tunnel is India's pride: CM Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa on Saturday said Atal Tunnel is India's pride. The world's longest tunnel, inaugurated by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, has enhanced India's power and capability, he added. "The tunnel, which is above 10,000 ft, will be of great use to the Indian Army. It is an engineering marvel and the prowess of Indian engineers is of top class," he added

SUNDAY INTERVIEW

FARMERS' APPREHENSIONS FULLY JUSTIFIED: GOWDA

RAMU PATIL @Bengaluru

AS farmers in Karnataka and several other parts of the country continue to protest against the farm bills, former Prime Minister and JDS president H D Deve Gowda says the farmers' apprehensions are fully justified and the governments must work towards clearing the air. Questioning the Central Government for pushing through the bills in the Rajya Sabha, Gowda says he had suggested to the government to take two months time to hold further discussions. Excerpts.

■ Farmers are protesting against the farm bills while the governments in state and Centre insist that the changes will help farmers.
After the bills were passed, the Prime Minister made two important statements — they will continue the Minimum Support Price and that the markets in the states will not be closed even after the APMC (Agricultural Produce Market Committee) Bill is approved. They (governments) say farmers' exploitation will be stopped and a system will be put in place to ensure that money reaches them directly and the Acts will be implemented in a phased manner till people understand the government's intent. In our state, when CM B S Yediyurappa brought in the amendments to Land Reforms, APMC and Industrial Disputes Acts by issuing ordinances, I held video conferences with our party leaders and also wrote letters to the CM opposing the move. He did not respond and I do not want to discuss it now.

Q&A H D DEVE GOWDA

■ Bills were passed in the Rajya Sabha amid ruckus. Your opening speech in RS was obstructed.
I was not allowed to speak in the House. I asked the government two important points. Why did you bring the Bills in such a hurry when you did not have a majority in the House? I asked them to refer them to the Select Committee or Joint Select Committee. The pandemonium in the RS could have been avoided if the government had allowed discussions. When I was talking, the Deputy Chairman asked me 10 times to finish it. I have the details of the House proceedings and looking into it. What can I do if they obstruct me?

■ After Land Reforms, APMC and Industrial Disputes Act failed to get through the Legislative Council, the state government is again issuing ordinances. What's your take?
There was no attempt to present the facts before the people. I remember the time when I was the opposition leader. We had just 24 MLAs, but we used to take all issues before the people. In those days, even the chief ministers were like that. Those days will not come back again. The CM has said that they will implement the amendments by again issuing ordinances. Unfortunately, the pandemic is stopping us from going before the people. I am always with farmers and need an opportunity to explain about their difficulties.

■ Your views on the apprehensions among farmers?
The governments and all of us must make efforts to clear their apprehensions. Many people and organisations are involved in the agitation, let them continue it. I do not want to comment about anyone.

■ How important are RR Nagar and Sira bypolls to the JDS? Will you campaign for party candidates?
It is not whether we will win or lose, we will put up our candidates in all constituencies. There is no scope for organising public meetings. We can only do door-to-door campaigning. Since I cannot go for campaigning, I will appeal to people to vote for our party candidates.

■ The CM seems to have a soft corner for the JDS. He accused Congress of misleading farmers, but said he will not criticise JDS?
After the government was formed, I said we would not destabilise it. We would only work towards strengthening our party. That was one of my first statements. That does not mean we will have an alliance with Yediyurappa. We have seen coalition governments earlier. Kumaraswamy or I have never said that we will destabilise the government. However, during the elections, we will put up our candidates and fight against them.

■ JDS and BJP are coming together again?
(laughs) ...Can we discuss what happened when we had formed the coalition government in the past? Did we go to Yediyurappa or did he approach us? Even if we explain, people will not believe it. I have seen enough and there is no point in discussing it.

■ After 28 years, BJP leaders accused in the Babri masjid demolition have been acquitted. How do you respond?
Can we reject the court order? Otherwise, we can talk about a lot of issues.

Former Congress MP's son joins BJP

Likely to be party's Sira candidate; his Kunchatiga Vokkaliga community, may work in his favour

ASHWINI M SRIPAD & DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Bengaluru/ Sira

DR C M Rajesh Gowda, a radiologist and son of former Congress MP C P Mudalagiriyappa, joined the BJP on Saturday. The 44-year-old is is likely to be the party's candidate for Sira Assembly by-poll, scheduled for November 3.

Explaining his likely candidature, a BJP leader said that Gowda is a known face in Sira, has a strong political background, enjoys a good rapport with the voters and has done a lot of work in during the lockdown. His father served as a three-time MP and one-time MLA from the Congress. "He is from Kunchatiga Vokkaliga community, which has 58,000 of the total 2.1 lakh voters in Sira. We expect it to work in our favour," he said.

In 2018, B Sathyanarayana from the JDS won by garnering 41 per cent of total votes, followed by T B Jayachandra from Congress with 35 per cent votes. BJP candidare S R Gowda was in the third place with just 9 per cent. "With the Congress almost finalising Jayachandra's name for the bypoll, it is not easy for the BJP to open its account here. That's why we wanted a fresh but popular face," they said.

In 2016, when Gowda, along with his business partner and then Congress CM Siddaramaiah's son Dr Yathindra bagged a contract from the government to set up a diagnostics lab at Victoria Hospital in Bengaluru, the BJP and other opposition parties had slammed Sidaramaiah for favouring his son's business. After that, Dr Yathindra, who is now the Congress MLA from Varuna, had walked out of the company. Gowda may not be acceptable to BJP workers on the ground, but senior party leaders are confident of convincing them, the sources said. "We have given enough chances to local BJP workers. B K Manjunath, who was given the ticket twice, got only 18,000 and 24,000 votes. S R Gowda got just 14,000 votes" the sources said.

This time, the BJP has hit the ground running, and has adopted the concept of Page Pramukh. According to this, a leader will be given the responsibility of a page from the voters' list from booths. The Page Pramukh has to ensure that 10-12 families in each page vote for the BJP. BJP state General Secretary N Ravikumar, who is camping in Sira, said they have constituted a committee for each booth. "We have also created WhatsApp groups to ensure that every voter is reached. I have visited 210 booths, and they are in our favour," he added.

RR Nagar: DK Ravi's wife may contest from Cong

Bengaluru: Congress is expected to announce its candidate for RR Nagar bypoll on Sunday. Late IAS officer D K Ravi's wife Kusuma will be joining Congress on Sunday and rumours suggest she might be given the ticket. Bengaluru Rural MP D K Suresh and KPCC president D K Shivakumar visited Kusuma's father, Hanumantharappa's house in Malathahalli on Saturday, who was a JDS member. Shivakumar said a surprise candidate's name will be announced. "There is a demand to get Kusuma enrolled in Congress and we have asked her to apply for primary membership on Sunday. The select committee, headed by senior leader Ramalinga Reddy, will announce the candidate," he added. ENS

Shettar orders resurvey of land to be acquired

Bengaluru: Large and Medium Industries minister Jagadish Shettar has ordered to conduct a resurvey of land acquisition for Nagamangala Industrial Area in Mandya district. The decision was taken after former CM H D Kumaraswamy complained about irrigation land being included in the project and asked it to be dropped. A meeting was convened by Shettar along with former CM Kumaraswamy, MLAs A Manjunath and Suresh Gowda, on Saturday where they discussed the issue. Shettar later directed to conduct a meeting with farmers and elected representatives and conduct the resurvey. "If it is agricultural land, it has to be stopped," he said. ENS

BJP picks another leader from Kunchatiga community

ENS @Bengaluru

THE BJP has picked Chidananda M Gowda, another leader from the Kunchatiga Vokkaliga community and also hailing from Sira, which will see bypolls to the Assembly seat, as one of its candidates for the upcoming Legislative Council elections.

On Saturday, the party announced four candidates, including Gowda, for the council polls. Former MLC S V Sankanuru been been given ticket to contest from West Graduates constituency. Shashil G Namoshi will contest from North-East Teachers constituency and former MLC Puttanna, who left JDS some time back and joined BJP, is the candidate from Bengaluru Teachers constituency.

Chidananda M Gowda, who runs educational institutions in Tumakuru, had contested the Assembly election in 2018 as an independent candidate. "Chidananda Gowda's support will give a push to the BJP candidate in the Sira Assembly bypoll. Also, Chidananda has enrolled more than 50,000 voters for South-East Graduates constituency," said a senior BJP leader.

Will go by party decision on cabinet rejig: Jarkiholi

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR @Belagavi

AFTER lobbying hard in New Delhi for cabinet berths to legislators from his camp, Water Resources Minister Ramesh Jarkiholi has abruptly changed stance. He now says he will abide by any decision taken by Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa on the induction of legislators into the cabinet or dropping some of them. However, he said he does not have any idea of whether the CM will indeed drop some ministers.

In the backdrop of reports that some ministers in the cabinet, especially from Belagavi district, may be dropped to make way for new faces, Jarkiholi said in Chikkodi on Saturday that he has no objection to it even if someone from Belagavi district is removed. He said he will accept the party's leadership's decision on expansion or reshuffling of the state cabinet.

Just two weeks ago, Jarkiholi visited New Delhi at least thrice and met the party's top leaders, including BJP national president J P Nadda, in an attempt to exert pressure on the party high command for the inclusion of some legislators from the group which had switched to BJP from the Congress and the JDS along with him.

According to sources, Jarkiholi had also pushed for the inclusion of C P Yogeshwar as Deputy CM besides getting some other legislators, including H Vishwanath and R Shankar into the cabinet. Sources indicated that Jarkiholi is confident that the party leadership will accommodate at least some of his associates this time to avoid any possible rift.

Name ex-CM meddling in drugs probe: HDK

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

FORMER chief minister and JDS leader H D Kumaraswamy on Saturday demanded that the state government name the former CM who allegedly interfered in the investigation into the drug-peddling case, as mentioned in a section of the media.

Taking strong exception to the reports ahead of the November 3 by-polls to Sira and RR Nagar assembly constituencies, Kumaraswamy said if any former CM is involved in such acts, the government must name him and also take action against the person as it is an anti-national act.

"Let them name who that former CM is. It is not fair to just say 'a former CM' and create confusion. The government must place all facts before people," he said and added that he had never protected anyone involved in any illegal activities.

Kumaraswamy said he will write to Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa and Home Minister Basavaraj Bommai demanding them to name the politician involved and if the reports are baseless, then the government should take action against those responsible for such reports.

WEAVES OF DESPAIR: INDUSTRY IN THE STATE IN DEEP CRISIS

SUNIL PATIL @Belagavi

THE disastrous effects of Covid-19 and lockdown continue to take a toll on the weaver community, which is poor but large, in different parts of the state. The relief measure announced by the government to help weavers has hardly helped them, and caught in a deep financial crisis, they have been left wondering whether they would get their businesses back on track at all.

First, it was the floods of 2019 that destroyed powerlooms, raw materials and ready sarees at several units in Belagavi. Soon after came the Covid pandemic, putting paid to an industry that was just looking up. Though the government has announced a Rs 100 crore package for weavers, the money is meagre when it reaches an individual, industry experts pointed out.

As per the Textile Department records, there are over 26,000 powerlooms in the district, half of them situated at Shahapur, Vadgaon and Khasbag areas of Belagavi city and the rest in Ramdurg, Nippani and Sulebhavi. The looms here manufacture drapes that are popularly known as 'Shahapuri Sarees' and are mainly sold in Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh, Maharashtra, Gujarat, Kerala and other states.

Parashuram Dhage, Secretary, Belagavi District Weavers' Association, said, "With the pandemic, no big weddings and functions are being organised, hitting our sales. There has been no demand from other states too. To make matters worse, buyers who had sourced our sarees earlier are not willing to release payments."

Srinivas Talukar, a weaver from Vadgaon, said, "Though we were literally thrown on the road, the government announced a ₹2,000 relief per month per family. This is far less than what is being given to other communities, who get ₹5,000 per month. Weavers who earned ₹500 per day earlier are now working as construction labourers, farm hands, security guards and even at Covid Care Centres where they are paid ₹200. Some have slipped into depression as they have no work and are not skilled to take up any other profession. Many have committed suicide as they could not repay loans."

Vasudev Doddamani, Deputy Director, Textile Department, said, "The families of two weavers who committed suicide have got ₹2 lakh relief from the Revenue Department. In other suicide cases, the compensation is yet to be released. Cooperative banks have waived off the interest for loans taken by weavers."

Textiles Minister Shrimant Patil said, "I am aware of the difficulties faced by weavers. I am leaving for New Delhi to meet Union Textiles Minister Smriti Irani with some proposals, including subsidies for power supplied to powerlooms set up at the Textile Park in Belagavi and a special package to revive the industry. We had suggested to the government to buy the sarees, which required an allocation of ₹50 crore, but it is stuck with the Finance Department. I will meet Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa soon to push this proposal. The families of the deceased weavers will get the relief in a week."

COVIDONOMICS PART-12

Covid effect: Charaka now insolvent

MARX TEJASWI @ Shivamogga

THE Covid pandemic has hit the Charaka Women's Multipurpose Industrial Cooperative Society, forcing it to declare insolvency as it could not repay the debt.

Founded by social activist Prasanna Heggodu in 1994, the Society at Bheemanakone in Sagar taluk of Shivamogga district was empowering around 800 handloom weavers, natural dye manufacturers and hundreds of women financially. Charaka had opened its marketing arm 'Desi' five years after its inception. While Charaka makes fabrics, Desi sells readymade garments.

It has 13 shops, including five in Bengaluru and the remaining in Shivamogga and Uttara Kannada districts.

"Our society was profitable for many years. We recorded a small profit this year too. Around one-and-a-half years ago, the slowdown hit the sales, and Covid forced it to the ground. But we were concerned about weavers and natural dyes manufacturers as they had become jobless. Since we had some resources, we continued to pay them. Now, that reserve is also exhausted," says Prasanna, who is also the mentor of the society.

A file picture of a woman weaving fabric at Charaka before the pandemic

"We have taken up certain government projects under the public private partnership (PPP), but the government has not released money for the last 12 years. Though the chief ministers has sanctioned the grants, officials are dilly-dallying, simply because we don't bribe them," he alleged.

The society has to get Rs 2 crore for various PPP projects, while it has invested its share of Rs 57 lakh.

"Charaka and Desi registered sales of Rs 1.80 lakh every day before the pandemic. It was almost zero during the lockdown. Now, we are recovering slowly," he said.

One of the reasons why the Society declared itself insolvent is to tell the world as to how rural India has been affected by the pandemic. Prasanna said, "Some brands have a margin of around 60 per cent on garments, we had only 40 per cent. Now, we are planning to sell garments at a reduced price. This will help increase the demand. We are planning to increase our daily sales turnover to Rs 2 lakh on an average with the new strategy."

Sampigehalli police on Saturday shot at and nabbed history-sheeter Syed Hanif (22) for pouring hot oil on a woman. On September 30, he asked Meghana, a bakery owner to give him a free cigarette, and poured hot oil on her when she refused. She suffered burns and is in hospital

Alva funded drug parties, says CCB; two bizmen held

Officials with the uprooted ganja plants at Holalkere on Saturday

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Central Crime Branch (CCB), which had issued a look-out notice for Aditya Alva in the Sadalwood drugs case to prevent him from leaving the country, has found that he was funding drug parties and sourcing women from abroad to attract crowds, a senior CCB officer said.

Alva is accused number six in the FIR, registered by the CCB at the Cottonpet police station on September 4 against 12 accused, including actor Ragini Dwivedi under the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act and the Indian Penal Code.

The officer said, "After interrogating kingpins, learned Alva hosted parties in posh pubs. From his phone call records, we have found that he was in touch with drug peddlers. He used five SIM cards."

On September 15, CCB raided Alva's sprawling family property — 'House of Life' — in Hebbal and seized some incriminating material from the premises. The son of former JDS minister late Jeevaraj Alva and brother-in-law of Bollywood actor Vivek Oberoi, he is known to organise high-end parties, sources said.

Meanwhile Sanjay Nagar police along with a team of CCB officials on Saturday morning raided an apartment in Dollars Colony and nabbed two more accused Varun, (45) and Vinod, (31), who are businessmen.

Based on a tipoff police searched the flats of the duo and found synthetic drugs. They were later arrested and produced before court. They used to bring drugs from neighbouring states. We are yet to interrogate them further whether they were selling the drug or using it.

Ganja plants worth `2.5 L destroyed

Chitradurga: Excise department officials uprooted and seized 28kg cannabis worth Rs 2.5 lakh in Holalkere on Saturday. Excise inspector Latha said the cannabis was being grown in a 1.2-acre maize field belonging to Kasturappa and Narasimhappa. The plants have been seized and a case has been booked against the owners who are absconding. Joint commissioner of Excise Mohan Kumar, deputy commissioner R Nagashayana, Inspector Shivaharalaiah, raided the plot. The cannabis was about to be harvested, officials said.

Irregularities: BBMP wants official repatriated

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

BBMP Commissioner N Manjunath Prasad has written to the government asking it to send back the Palike chief accounts officer to his parent department, citing financial anomalies.

He said that Chief Accounts Officer R Govindaraju should be returned to the revenue department as financial irregularities have been found under four categories – Rs 7.86 crore in general allotment a financial error, Rs 7.68 crore in special commissioner funds, Rs 5.83 crore in state finance commission funds and Rs 6.96 crore in offline payment to the Gandhinagar executive engineer.

"The funds allocated for particular schemes like Nagarothana cannot be diverted for other programmes. Permission from commissioner and special commissioners is required while handling funds. It is also a rule that payments should be made through the corporation's IFS software, but here it was found that Rs 6.96 crore was being transacted offline and this transaction was stopped immediately. Since we cannot suspend him, we have written to the government to send him back to his parent department," Prasad said.

Ward committee meetings

The first ward committee meetings, organised by the newly appointed nodal officers, were held on Saturday. Of the 198 wards, meetings of 168 wards were held. Prasad said Whatsapp groups for all wards have been formed. The meetings discussed black spots, potholes, rajakaluves, smart city works, unauthorised constructions.

ED summons Bineesh Kodiyeri in drugs case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Directorate of Enforcement (ED), Bengaluru, has summoned Bineesh Kodiyeri, son of Kerala CPI (M) State Secretary Kodiyeri Balakrishnan, on October 6.

The ED will question Bineesh regarding his association with drugs racket accused Mohammed Anoop, who was arrested by the Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB), Bengaluru zonal unit, on August 24 under the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances (NDPS) Act, along with other accused R Ravindran and Anikha D. Anoop is from Kochi and is said to be a close friend of Bineesh.

Speaking to The New Indian Express, sources said that the ED has questioned Anoop, who is lodged in the Bengaluru Central Prison at Parapanna Agrahara, during which he reportedly told the officials that Bineesh had funded his restaurant business in Bengaluru. In the guise of running a restaurant, Anoop was allegedly peddling drugs to prominent people in the city.

The ED will look into whether the financial deals between the two are linked to the drugs case. Bineesh has acknowledged his friendship with Anoop, but denied any links with the illegal drug business.

India test-fires new nuclear capable missile

HEMANT KUMAR ROUT
@Bhubaneswar

ADDING more teeth to its arsenal, India on Saturday successfully conducted the first test of the advanced version of nuclear capable hypersonic missile Shaurya from a defence facility off Odisha coast.

The surface-to-surface medium range new hybrid missile blasted off from a hermetically canister in ground launch mode from the Abdul Kalam Island test range at about 12.10 pm.

Developed by Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) under the project code-named B-05, the newer version of the missile has a strike range of 750 km to 1800 km depending on the payload.

Defence sources said the missile equipped with multiple advanced computing technology, very high accuracy navigation, efficient propulsion, sophisticated control and guidance systems followed the trajectory as expected before zeroing in on the target in the Bay of Bengal.

"The missile performed a manoeuvre in the terminal phase and hit the impact point with a few metre accuracy. The mission was a copy book success," said a Ministry of Defence official.

The indigenously developed missile that took off vertically was tracked and monitored through an integrated system of sophisticated radars.

Spl CBI Court to hear Jagan's assets case

YSRC MP, several senior IAS officers involved in case, says probe agency

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hyderabad

THE alleged disproportionate assets case of Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister YS Jagan Mohan Reddy will soon come up for hearing before the Special CBI Court at Hyderabad following the directions issued by the Telangana High Court on Saturday.

Besides Jagan, several others including YSRC MP V Vijayasai Reddy, MLA Dharmana Prasada Rao, P Sabitha Indra Reddy, who is now the Education Minister of Telangana, and several senior IAS officers and industrialists are involved in the assets case. The case was last heard in February this year. Apart from the special court for MPs and MLAs, cases against legislators are pending before the Special CBI Court in Telangana.

In February this year, the CBI filed a counter affidavit before the Telangana High Court dealing with 11 petitions filed by Jagan seeking to quash the order of the Special CBI Court, to dispense with his personal appearance before the trial court and to allow his advocate to appear on his behalf during hearing of criminal proceedings initiated against him.

The petitioner who is arrayed as accused number one in the 11 chargesheets filed against him in the case, challenged the order of the Special CBI Court in dismissing his plea to grant exemption from personal appearance in the case and to allow his advocate to appear on his behalf during the case hearing on Fridays. When Jagan's counsel urged for passing specific orders regarding his appearance before the trial court, the Court suggested the counsel to inform the CBI court, about the high court case which was posted to April 9 this year.

Pursuant to the Supreme Court recent order in Ashwini Kumar Upadhyay and others vs Union of India and others case, the Telangana High Court issued orders on Saturday directing the Metropolitan sessions judge at Hyderabad, special judge for trial of cases against MPs and MLAs, special judge under the Prevention of Corruption Act for speedy trial of cases of embezzlement.

Convocation fees: NLSIU students cry foul

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA
@Bengaluru

THE students of India's top law college, National Law School of India University, are peeved that they have been charged Rs 2,000 for a pre-recorded convocation.

They said that the charges were hiked from the previous year's Rs 1,500 for a physical convocation to Rs 2,000 this year. They questioned why the institute hiked it for a virtual ceremony.

Just a few days ago, the law school held its virtual convocation and conferred 576 degrees and 48 medals. The ceremony was simple-- a message from Vice chancellor Sudhir Krishnaswamy and declaration of the convocation open by the chief guest Prof Niraja Gopal Jayal, Centre for Study of Law and Governance, JNU, and giving of degrees to students by Chancellor Justice S A Bobde, the Chief Justice of India. And the scrolling down of names on the screen of the 576 graduates and medal winners.

This replaced the elaborate ceremony held until last year. "The institute rents a venue for an elaborate convocation ceremony each year, the fee for which is justified. But not this year," said Charmi Mehta, chairperson, MPP Student Council 2019-20, NLSIU.

"We wrote multiple emails to the university officials, MHRD and the UGC but there was no response," she said.

Further, students alleged that the money was deducted from their security deposit, leaving them no say in the matter.

In an official response, the institute said, "All fees relating to the convocation/ degrees whether being conferred in person or in absentia apply to all students, including those in our distance education programmes."

"These charges are applied every year as convocation charges," said the officials.

Consortium denies discrepancies in CLAT

Fee for objections

The committee noted that a large number of 'unnecessary' objections were filed and hence the consortium has decided to charge a fee for candidates who want to file for objections from next year onwards. Only if their objections are accepted, the charges will be refunded.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

AFTER CLAT (Common Law Admission Test) candidates alleged that the answers they had chosen during the examination did not get reflected in the system-generated response sheet, the Consortium of National Law Universities on Saturday categorically denied their allegations. The consortium said that an expert committee had looked into the objections filed by the candidates.

When it examined the 'Mark for Review' objections, the committee found that as per the rules/ instructions, no marks were allocated to answers that were 'marked for review'.

The committee examined the audit log of the candidates who had raised objections to the response sheet and did not find any discrepancies between the candidate's choices and the Response Sheet, said the consortium.

Instead, in one case, they found that a candidate had changed responses six times, and the last response was accepted. The service provider will provide the court with an audit trail of the candidate (which records the clicks and mouse movements) in case of a dispute, it said.

The elephants that were found dead in Bannerghatta

Notice to power utility: Forest dept

BNP Deputy Conservator of Forests Prashanth said that the field staff informed him on Saturday morning, but the carcasses could not be fished out as they had bloated up. By the time earthmovers reached the site, it was 5.30 pm. The operation to remove the carcasses out of the water will be taken up on Sunday morning, he said.

Another forest official said, "We will send a notice to the power utility and also take action against them for the deaths of the two elephants. They are protected under Schedule 1 of the Wildlife Protection Act, 1972."

The official added that electricity poles do pass through forest fringes connecting villages, but poles in water bodies is unusual. "Preliminary reports show that some poles have bent and two wires have come in contact with each other, leading to grounding, which led to the casualties," the official said.

Dr K S Umashankar, assistant director, veterinary services at Bannerghatta Biological Park, said, "I went into the lake to examine the carcasses. The tusks are not burnt and there are no physical injuries. They could be around 20- 25 years old and may have died three days ago as they are heavily bloated. A sudden shock may have caused them to collapse in the water."

Accept caste census: Siddu to govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

LEADER of Opposition in the Assembly Siddaramaiah on Saturday urged the state government to accept the socio-economic and educational survey, or the caste census, submitted by the state Backward Classes Commission.

He said that if the government refuses to accept the report, Karnataka State Backward Castes Federation members will be forced to hit the streets and he too will support the protest. "There was no question of accepting the report when I was the CM as it was not ready then," he said.

Siddaramaiah said the government had tasked the Commission to conduct the census and 1.88 lakh people were involved in gathering data. "The government spent Rs 162.77 crore on the survey. Based on the information gathered, the commission has prepared a comprehensive report," he said.

The government must accept the report and based on that, the government can formulate reservation policy and other programmes. "I don't know what the report contains. People are speculating about its contents," he said.

Plant poses threat to Puttenahalli bird reserve: Residents' petition

THE blast at the gas-based combined cycle power plant has created fear among the residents of Yelahanka and Puttenahalli as it comes close on the heels of the styrene gas leak from the chemical plant of LG Polymers at Vishakapatnam in Andhra Pradesh.

In its application before the NGT, a copy of which is with TNSE, the trust pointed out that in May 2020, they had written to the Karnataka State Pollution Control Board and BBMP Commissioner mentioning about the blasts happening at the site, the vibrations and the rising air pollution.

"People living in the vicinity have seen some type of froth being discharged continuously from the plant. It rises high in the air, causing severe air pollution and health hazards. Further, there is continuous emission of gases due to which the entire area is getting polluted," the petition says.

It also pointed that there is an abnormal increase in heat and rise in air, noise and light pollution due to the presence of the power plant. This has direct bearing on the birds in Puttenahalli Bird Conservation Reserve. Changes in air temperature due to stack emissions affect the migratory pattern of birds and the deposition of pollutants on the water body, are serious issues which need to be addressed immediately, it said.

"There is no mention of any safety measures taken, or the safety measures taken so far were not enough to prevent the blast. Fortunately, the gas leak did not spread to the vicinity of the lake and the residential areas, which would otherwise, have caused huge havoc and loss of bird habitat and human lives," the trust contended.

"The environmental clearance, obtained in 2015, is void ab initio and is a nullity since it has been issued without taking into consideration the facts of the protect area. KPCL had concealed prior knowledge it had about the declaring the lake as a Bird Conservation Reserve. The plant is between two lakes — Yelahanka lake and Puttenahalli Lake — which would lead to immense environmental degradation and affect the flow of water into the lakes. The power plant is within 500mts of the lakes, hence the power to grant environmental clearances is only with MoEFCC and not SEIAA," it said.

The trust members quoted the MoEFCC February 2011 guidelines and said the plant is a red category industry and an activity of great environmental footprint covered under the EIA Notification, 2006, is prohibited from being set up in the vicinity of protected areas and the power plant is being established in an area where no pollution control measures are possible.

The trust members quoted the MoEFCC February 2011 guidelines and said the plant is a red category industry | EXPRESS

2020 US POLLS: THE TEST OF EVENTS

THE THIRD EYE

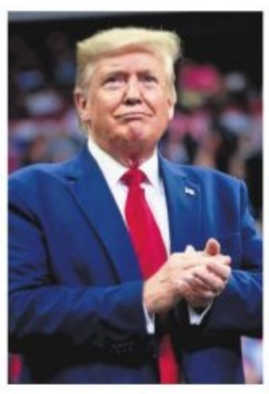
SHANKKAR AIYAR
Author of The Gated Republic, Aadhaar: A Biometric History of India's 12 Digit Revolution, and Accidental India
shankkar.aiyar@gmail.com

WHAT do politicians worry the most about? The pithy answer "Events, dear boy, events' is of unknown origin and is a quote in search of an author. And Donald J Trump may well consider filing for adoption rights.

Buoyed by a prosperity boom Trump was coasting towards re-election for a second term till the advent of the event — the pandemic — upturned his cart. For months, Trump railed against attempts to let the pandemic define his presidency — perpetuating denial and untold tragedies. On Thursday, Trump and his wife Melania tested positive for COVID-19.

Thus far almost every major poll is predicting a victory for Joe Biden over Donald J Trump. Polling data reveals the margins of Biden's lead over Trump are wide — six points as per the forecast by FiveThirtyEight, seven points as per CNBC/Change Research and eight points as per USC/Dornsife. The Economist/YouGov rates the chances of a Biden victory at 8 of 9 versus one in 10 for Trump.

No pollster is ruling out a Trump triumph though. Pollsters data show 94 per cent of those who voted for him in 2016 claim they would vote for him again. Facts matter — the promised wall is three miles long, the trade deficit, particularly with China, is just as bad, Obamacare is yet alive. Folklore and Fakelore it would seem matter more — for Trump supporters the idyll of ideas, a conservative majority in the Supreme Court or for that matter just the vague notion and promise to 'Make America Great Again'.



The Democrats, somewhat like India's Congress party, whose leaders in the run up to the 2019 parliamentary polls were tabulating how many seats the BJP would fall short of majority, tend to conflate coincidence with causation and consequence. Arguably, the unfiltered view of whimsical volatility within the Trump administration surfacing through book excerpts, the narrative in the mainstream media, and the reality of angst among the oppressed carry the potential of electoral consequences. That though is not a 'given' — the algebra of electoral math though has been frequently overtaken by political chemistry.

Prima facie, the abject failure of the world's richest and most powerful nation to manage the pandemic is reflected in the continuing wave of cases and deaths — over 7.3 million cases and over 208,000 deaths as of Friday. The employment scenario migrated from payroll protected furloughs to permanent job losses — the US economy is estimated to have recovered only 11 million of the 23 million lost in April. Race relations are said to be at the worst since the late sixties.

Trump though has kept his voter base engaged and secure with weaponised phraseology. His standard response to facts, whether it is deaths, deficit, deception on taxes, has been consistent– dub it all as fake news. He has also leveraged fear to consolidate his votes. Like it or not, the campaign to defund the police sent shivers up the spines of those who have invested in a life in the leafy suburbs. Trump's slogan on law and order, derived from the Nixon campaign, has a ring to it among those who have a lot to lose if the violent protests persist and if the police are defunded.

Biden's success depends much on how many of the Trump Democrats he is able to woo back and whether the invocation of the Biden Conservatives has had any impact. The orbital shift requires Biden to score victories in critical states. Ohio, the location of the first Presidential Debate, is considered as the test market for business and politics. Biden must win it to clinch the polls. In 2018 despite their good showing, Democrats won only 4 of the 16 Congressional seats and, in 2020, Biden is yet to nudge past Trump. There is a certain resonance to a popular and baffling truism – Trump's supporters believe in him even if they do not believe everything he says. They take him seriously and are not naïve to take him literally. He has over 90 per cent approval rating among Republicans.

In the best of times, prediction in any US Presidential poll is tricky and perilous. First, any poll predicting the winner of popular votes can go wrong. Second, even if the prediction of popular vote holds up, there is the eventuality that the winner of the popular vote may not aggregate the necessary numbers in the Electoral College — as indeed happened in 2016 with Hillary Clinton or in 2000 with Al Gore. Trump's chilling refusal to assure smooth transfer of power added a new variable in the complexity of outcomes.

On Friday evening, the US President was hospitalised. The event now occupies prime time space previously devoted to utterances, machinations and allegations. As air time is dotted with opinion and funereal speculation, as brutal memes about the Karma of Corona spews on social media timelines, a new hypothesis has sprouted — will voter antipathy morph into sympathy?

The parade of events is testing the world's oldest democracy.

BABRI MASJID DEMOLISHED YET AGAIN

POINT OF VIEW

T J S GEORGE

FINALLY, there is a new truth: There was no plan to destroy the Babri Masjid. The court has set free all 32 accused on the ground that there was no evidence to prove that they had conspired to bring the masjid down. If there was no conspiracy and no plan, the only possibility is that the big masjid fell down by itself. This is possible, given the notorious malpractices prevalent in India's construction business. May be the contractors used poor quality cement even in those days.

Since we are all patriotic, we must also have a second look at what we have been accepting as facts till now. More than a lakh of "volunteers" had assembled in Ayodhya. They were armed with tell-tale implements such as spades and ropes and crowbars. Providing inspiration from vantage points were political leaders such as L K Advani, Murli Manohar Joshi and Uma Bharti.

These are all known and recorded facts. They were legally authenticated by a judge named Liberhan who reported that Sangh Parivar organisations had collected the funds required for the operations and that kar sevaks had converged in Ayodhya and Faizabad with "army-like discipline" in a "well-orchestrated and planned manner". The theory now upheld by the CBI court is that Advani-Joshi were there to stop anti-social elements from destroying the masjid.

It is an endorsement that goes well with new notions of patriotism. Time was when the judiciary was an umpire feared for its uncompromising independence and its commitment to judicial autonomy. But ideas of patriotism and judicial independence have undergone changes in keeping with modern notions of rule of the people, by the people, for the people. The guiding principle today is: What is good for the rulers is good for the ruled.

It is another matter that the court's ruling carries little conviction with the public. Several organisations have already voiced criticism of it while moves are underway to go to higher courts on appeal. While such moves may proceed at their own pace, the implications of the current verdict can neither be missed nor ignored. That segments of the judiciary wish to be seen as more loyal than the king is now there for anyone to see.

The fall that began with Indira Gandhi's 1975 Emergency has become precipitous. It was to fight judicial honesty that she resorted to an extreme measure such as Emergency. She succeeded in subjugating the judiciary. Justice H R Khanna refused to be cowed down and paid his price by getting blacklisted.

What is disturbing is that the present judicial partisanship amounts to endorsing the Hindutva lobby's stance that the Mughal period of history must be erased from memory as well as from the records. Textbooks can be changed, but how practical is the view that remnants of Mughal glory must be wiped out as well? Apart from the Taj Mahal, these "remnants" include Delhi's Red Fort and the Agra Fort, besides landmarks like Humayun's Tomb, Fatehpur Sikri, Delhi's Jama Masjid, Akbari Fort and Museum at Ajmer, the splendid Tajul-Masjid in Bhopal and the Taj Mahal-like Bibi Ka Maqbara in Aurangabad.

If there was no conspiracy and no plan, the only possibility is that the big masjid fell down by itself. This is possible, given the notorious malpractices prevalent in India's construction business. May be the contractors used poor quality cement

It is a pity that globally admired masterpieces that qualify for preservation in subjugating the judiciary. Justice H R Khanna refused to be cowed down and paid his price by getting blacklisted.

What is disturbing is that the present judicial partisanship amounts to endorsing the Hindutva lobby's stance that the Mughal period of history must be erased from memory as well as from the records. It is a pity that globally admired masterpieces that qualify for preservation in communal terms in today's India. A structure like the Allahabad Fort at the confluence of the Ganga and the Yamuna is not just a legacy of Akbar; it was also a tribute from the Mughal emperor to an area that had become a centre of pilgrimage for ascetics and which he had accordingly named Illahabas (blessed by God). Emperors of those days were often respectful towards worshippers of other gods. It is today's emperors who are intolerant of dissenters.

The area cleared by the demolition of the masjid was handed over by an obliging Supreme Court to the very demolition advocates who wanted to put up a Ram temple there. This was in spite of the Supreme Court describing the demolition as "an egregious violation of the rule of law". We are being tutored to understand varying meanings of terms like violation and rule of law, demolition and construction, politics of religion and religion of politics.

Now that judicial legitimisation has given a fresh new face to the Ram Janmabhumi concept, the shilanyas of two months ago can be carried to its logical conclusion. On that day, 3,500 policemen, 40 companies of Armed Constabulary, 10 companies of the RAF and two Directors General of Police were deployed in Ayodhya. The Gods must have felt happy that India's police is there to protect them.

MAHATMA GANDHI AND THE GREAT INDIAN WAY

RIGHT IN THE MIDDLE

MAKARAND R. PARANJAPE
Director, Indian Institute of Advanced Study, Shimla
Tweets @MakrandParanspe

IN my book, 'The Death and Afterlife of Mahatma Gandhi' (Penguin 2015), I said that more than anyone else, Gandhi is the 'man we hate to love and love to hate'. This paradox explains his enormous persistence, if not appeal, in India.

The year-long sesquicentennial celebrations of Mahatma Gandhi's birth came to an end on 2nd October, 151 years after his birth in 1869. It was a somewhat tepid close, at least from the intellectual point of view, with hardly any new ideas or ways of understanding the Mahatma. Kicked-off last September by a committee headed by the President of India, it saw a number of programmes and events subsumed under one rubric,"Gandhi in action."

It was PM Narendra Modi's idea, according to the official Gandhi@150 website (https://gandhi.gov.in/karyanjali.html), that most of the programmes during the celebrations should focus on government initiatives. Hence the title, Karyanjali. Naturally, the celebrations were integrated with the government's own flagship activities, such as the Swachh Bharat Abhiyan, whose symbol was the easily recognisable pair of Gandhi's spectacles.

It was as if Gandhi was looking at us as we struggled to clean up our actions and surroundings. But more, in the time of a global pandemic, Gandhi's emphasis on both physical and moral cleanliness was sure to resonate across the globe. Gandhi, we must not forget, was also the father of public health in South Africa and India, showing us how to stay healthy in his two very popular books, 'Guide to Health' and 'Key to Health'.

Unfortunately, the emphasis on ensuring the continuing relevance of Gandhi, both nationally and globally, was not adequately addressed through a deeper engagement with his life and ideas. Not at all surprising considering that the cancel culture and Black Lives Matter (BLM) movements have not spared Gandhi. Along with other notables such as Abraham Lincoln and Winston Churchill, Gandhi statues were also desecrated on both sides of the Atlantic, in both Washington DC and London.

In March 2015, a 9ft bronze statue of the Mahatma had been unveiled in Parliament Square, London, by the late Arun Jaitley, then Finance Minister, in the presence of then UK Prime Minister, David Cameron. That statue was defaced with the expletive "racist" on its base and spray painted in white by protesters on 8th June.

But, Gandhi, paradoxically refuses to die. That is because like any other Mahatma, his afterlife is greater than his life, the legend grander than the man. As Raja Rao puts it in the just republished, 'Mahatma Gandhi: The Great Indian Way' (Penguin, 2020): "Every man's life is a fable. The not-two becomes two, and so the story. The great man is one whose life is a legend. A legend is just an epic fable, an hierophanous tale. ... He who achieves the impersonal, the principle, the great being, the Mahatma. He it is that's become the Law, from the laws that hold (dhru) the sun and the moon, the negative and positive in electricity, man and woman, the good and bad, and the law that makes the waters go down to the sea. When the sea and the waves are seen as water you see greatness. Greatness is not great. It is."

Why has he endured? The answer is simple apart from the things we dislike or adore about him, notwithstanding his many mistakes or miscalculations, even if we think his brand of ahimsa is unworkable, Gandhi's truth is capable of being its own defence. He needs no other defenders nor apologists

Facts according to Raja Rao, do not do justice to the life of a great person — only legends can do that. Rao invents a pauranic style for the retelling the Gandhi's story.

I call it 'seeing with three eyes' in my Introduction: 'The first eye sees only facts. The second espies the fable behind and around the fact. It is only the third eye, the eye of wisdom, that can combine both to see into the depths of things, their secret significance and meaning.'

Raja Rao calls this special way of seeing 'fact against custom, history against time . . . geography against space.' In this book on the Mahatma, Rao accomplishes precisely this, making 'life larger than it seems.' The very things that we react so much to when it comes to the Mahatma, with their 'small impurities and accidents and parts, must perforce be transmuted into equations where the mighty becomes normal, and the normal in its turn becoming myth.'

In Raja Rao's magical retelling of Gandhi's life, 'prose and poetry thus flow into one another, the personal and the impersonal, making the drama altogether noble and simple.' Why yet another biography? Raja Rao answers this question in the Preface: 'A biography of Gandhi, it seemed to me, had to be written as it were from the inside, desperately, faithfully. It's an ambitious task. Should one have done it – I have.'

Raja Rao is right. You can bring down a statue, you can tarnish a reputation. But it is very hard to erase a legend, to undo a purana or epic. Like Rama, who has been more attacked in the present times than ever before, continues to matter to Indians to the point that his return to Ayodhya is cause for national rejoicing. Similarly, there remains something 'noble and simple' about Gandhi too that cannot be denied or tarnished. He remains India's most recognizable and respected world-wide figure, a great symbol of Indian values and our enduring soft power. Why has he endured? The answer is simple apart from the things we dislike or adore about him, notwithstanding his many mistakes or miscalculations, even if we think his brand of ahimsa is unworkable, Gandhi's truth is capable of being its own defence. He needs no other defenders nor apologists.

The reason Gandhi matters is that he represents the power and potential of the human condition to seek and attain the better life through moral rather than wicked means. Even more importantly, for the human race to transform itself so as to attain that higher consciousness which alone can save us and our planet from suicide.

Yogi govt's false safety claims

The gang rape of a Dalit girl by four upper caste men in UP's Hathras and her subsequent death has again put the focus on gender violence and caste discrimination in the sdtate. Politics aside, the horrendous nature of the crime is driving civil society protests across India. She was gang raped, brutally beaten almost to death, allegedly had her tongue cut and ultimately killed. Her only mistake was that she was a woman. It also picks holes in CM Yogi Adityanath's argument that the law-and-order situation in UP has become much better under his BJP government. The Hathras horror has brought focus on the hooliganism in the state, which could not be controlled by any government.

Bad IBC amendment

The corporate defaults accruing from March 25 to Dec 24, extendable for further three months, have been permanently taken out of the IBC radar so that no company ceases to exist due to corona stress (TNIE editorial, Sept 28). However, the step sends across a wrong message to the entire borrowers that non-repayment will be tolerated. This is highly detrimental to the banks which are already reeling under mounting bad debts. Because of loan restructuring, the deep crisis will start coming to light only later. Government should have only postponed the IBC proceedings suitably instead of stalling them for ever. Poor taxpayers should not be hit hard like this.

Crisis during the pandemic

The present crisis in the medical community in the capital city of Kerala which started with suspension of a doctor over the finding of maggots in the wound of an elderly last week is unfortunate. Over a dozen of doctors has submitted their resignation in protest against the move.The state had been enjoying a comfortable situation until the responsibility of controlling the pandemic was entrusted to the police. Incidently, everything went bizarre once the health department was relieved of their responsibility of front line Covid care. It's time the government introspected its decision and corrected its actions.

Imran's empty boasts

It is amusing that Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan brags that he would have sacked the Army Chief on Kargil (Octpber 3), if he was by-passed in decision making. Yet, the Pakistan Prime Minister gave two years extension to Pakistan Army Chief Qamar Javed Bajwa to appease him. He was also sent as envoy to Saudi Arabia to deal with the king. It is a well known fact that a PM dances to the tunes of the army band and cannot move a stick without tacit consent from the uniform in the neighbouring country. Even his election as PM had the blessings of the forces. Imran will be in fool's paradise that if he thinks he is the de-facto ruler of Islamic republic.

Trump tests Covid positive

It is no surprise that US President Donald Trump who had been so dismissive of coronavirus has tested positive for the virus. It is only fair to say that he has been a major booster of Covid-19 in his country with his unscientific actions and views which were also responsible for the death of more than 2 lakhs of his compatriots. Trump is a symbol of his own failure and obscurantism. How the impending US presidential election will unfold remains to be seen.

India should work on vaccine

This refers to the editorial "Ensuring vaccine for Covid reaches all". Immunization plan has to be kick started coupled with requisite provision for wherewithal. However, the moot point is how many people shall come forward for inoculation without the proven efficacy of the vaccine. Going by the developments, it is apparent it has to go a long way. India ought to be cautious that its citizens are not treated as guinea pigs by developed nations.

Bihar: RJD alliance unity in tatters as one party quits

Vikassheel Insaan Party rebelled when it failed to get any seat

THE united face put up by the RJD-led Grand Alliance lay in tatters before the media when one of its allies, the Vikassheel Insaan Party, rebelled against the alliance when it failed to get any seat.

Announcing the final seat-sharing arrangement on Saturday, RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav said his party would contest 144 seats, Congress 70, CPI-ML 19, CPI six and CPM four. The Bihar assembly has a strength of 243.

Yadav also announced that the Congress would contest the Lok Sabha byelection on November 3. He said the VIP and the JMM would be accommodated later from his party's quota. The moment Yadav finished, VIP president Mukesh Sahni took hold of the mike and announced that his party had been betrayed and backstabbed. He announced an immediate break from the alliance and left the venue with party other leaders.

His supporters created a ruckus for an hour and shouted slogans against the alliance and Yadav.

At his wits end, Yadav immediately left the venue escorted by his security guards but only to be gheraoed by VIP supporters.

Sahni told the media that his party was assured 25 seats and the post of the deputy CM. He claimed that his party enjpys the support of Dalits, mahadalits and other extremely poor communities.

"The Grand Alliance at the behest of the RJD betrayed us and stabbed us in the back. They have humiliated millions of poor people and they will be given a fitting reply in the elections," Sahni claimed. He said his party would announce its next move on Sunday at a media briefing.

Responding to the VIP's allegations, the RJD said Sahni and his party were acting at the behest of the NDA. "Sahni was not invited at the announcement for the seat-sharing arrangement but he arrived on his own. He was determined to create an ugly scene," RJD spokesperson Shakti Singh Yadav alleged.

Taking a dig at the RJD, JD-U spokesperson Ajay Alok said the RJD and its allies have shown their true face towards a party of the poor.

PM inaugurates 'strategically imp' tunnel

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday inaugurated the 9.02 kilometre-long Atal Tunnel built at an altitude of 3,000 meters (10,00 feet) in Rohtang. Addressing a function after inaugurating PM Modi said the country's defence interests were compromised for a long time as their governments kept 'playing around with files' and delayed procurement of fighter jets, arms, ammunition and other strategic equipment.

PM said, "Nothing is more important for us than the defence of the country. But for a long time, the country has also witnessed an era when the defence interests of the country were compromised. The Air Force of the country kept demanding a modern fighter plane, while they kept opening and closing files after files, and kept playing around with those files."

He added, "This day is a historic day as not only the dream of Atal Bihari Vajpayee has been realised but also decades-long wait of Himachal is over."

Hitting out at the Congress, which headed the coalition government at the Centre during 2004-14, Modi cited a number of strategically important projects, from Atal Tunnel to the airstrip at Daulat Beg Oldi in Ladakh and Tejas fighter aircraft production, to assert that they were delayed or almost forgotten.

The then prime minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee had inaugurated the approach road to Atal Tunnel in 2002, but the project was almost forgotten after his government was gone, Modi said, targeting the Congress-led UPA dispensation.

Work on only 1,300 meters was completed by 2013-14, he noted, adding that the project would have been completed by 2040 by this pace before his government took charge in 2014 and speeded it up at an unprecedented rate. Modi's reference assumes significance in the wake of the government's repeated assertion that the UPA regime had delayed decisions on the acquisition of Rafale fighter jets from France.

"Be it ammunition, modern rifles, bulletproof jackets, equipment that are used in cold weather conditions, everything was kept in abeyance. There was a time when the strength of our ordnance factories would make many jitters, but the country's ordnance factories were left on their own," he said after inaugurating the tunnel, which would reduces the travel distance between Manali and Leh by 46 km and the travel time by four to five hours.

Modi reached Manali earlier on Saturday, with Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, Chief of Defence staff Bipin Rawat, Himachal Pradesh Chief Minister Jairam Thakur, Minister of State for Finance Anurag Singh Thakur and the DG BRO Lt Gen Harpal Singh at the inauguration ceremony.

NGO pitches in to procure oxygen at ₹50 per cylinder

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Srinagar

AMID fears that the Covid-19 cases may rise in winters and patients may need more oxygen support, a NGO and Masjid committees in Kashmir have decided to procure the oxygen concentrators and make them available to the patients on rent. The price is as nominal as ₹50 for a cylinder per day.

Bashir Ahmad Nadvi, chairman of Athrout Foundation, an NGO, said they have got 300 oxygen concentrators and the NGO is renting them out to the Covid-19 patients needing oxygen support.

The NGO, he said, had about 150 oxygen concentrators and purchased 150 more after outbreak of Covid-19 pandemic in March to deal with the health emergency.

Nadvi said the Covid-19 patients, who are in need of oxygen concentrators, are approaching them through their attendants. "Not only people from Srinagar, but from other parts of the Valley reach us for oxygen concentrators for the Covid-19 patients."According to him, the NGO every day rents out at least 20 oxygen concentrators to the patients. The Covid patients with breathing problems need the oxygen concentrators for atleast a week or over a fortnight.

The Masjid Committees in the Valley, which till now had been offering help to the destitute and poor, have also risen to the occasion.

Bodies of trio killed in J&K encounter exhumed

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

BODIES of three men from Rajouri, killed in an alleged fake encounter by Army in Shopian district of Jammu and Kashmir in July, have been exhumed and handed over to their families, officials said on Saturday.

The exhumation was done late Friday night at an unidentified location in north Kashmir — hours after Director General of Jammu and Kashmir Police (DGP) Dilbag Singh said the legal process to exhume and handover the bodies was on and would be completed soon.

"The bodies of the three persons were exhumed and then handed over to their families," the officials said.

They said the families of the three men were called from Rajouri district in Jammu region and taken to the spot where the trio was buried. The families will take the bodies to their native village to bury them, they added.

The DGP had on Friday said that the legal process to exhume the bodies had been started and will be completed soon.

On September 30, inspector general of police (IGP), Kashmir, Vijay Kumar said since the DNA samples matched with the family, the three bodies will be exhumed and handed over to families after due process of law.

On July 18, the Army claimed three militants were killed in Amshipura village in the higher reaches of south Kashmir's Shopian district.

However, the Army initiated an inquiry after social media reports indicated the three men were from Rajouri district in Jammu and had gone missing at Amshipura.

Ahead of Ladakh-Leh elections, 300 BJP leaders, workers resign

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

AHEAD of the Ladakh Autonomous Hill Development Council (LAHDC)-Leh polls in Ladakh Union Territory, the BJP has suffered setback in the cold desert as over 300 workers including two former councilors and some core members have resigned from the party.

The saffron party has dropped some former councilors and given tickets to new faces for the LAHDC-Leh polls which would be held in 26 seats on October 16. It has angered the workers and former councilors, who have been left out.

The BJP's former councilor from Saspol constituency Tsering Angdus announced his resignation a few days back. Another former BJP councilor Lobzang Nyantak also quit the party. The LADHC-Leh comprises 30 members – 26 elected and four nominated. In the outgoing LAHDC-Leh, BJP had 18 councillors.

Among those who resigned from the party includes BJP vice president Leh Sonam Ponchuk Wanla

In his resignation letter, Sonam wrote, "I have found working for BJP a matter of great pride and endless satisfaction for myself. However, I am finding it difficult to reconcile with the current functioning of the party."

Two more senior party members Manzoor Hussain and Mumtaz Hussain also resigned to protest alleged favouritism in allotment of tickets for the council polls. "The party did not choose right candidates from some constituencies and resorted to favouritism. We cannot support those candidates and have decided to quit the party," they wrote in their resignation letter.

The BJP's core member in Ladakh Syeda Ladakhi, who was a nominated councilor in the outgoing LAHDC Leh has also resigned from the party.

Rape victim writes to PM against MLA

VINEET UPADHYAY @Dehradun

WOMAN who has accused Uttarakhand's sitting BJP MLA Mahesh Negi of raping her and fathering her child has now written to Prime Minister Narendra Modi demanding a CBI probe in the case.

In her four-page letter, the woman accused the BJP government in the state and police of trying to shield the accused MLA.

SP Singh, lawyer of the woman said, "The letter and been sent to the honorable Prime Minister voting state police's biasness towards MLA. She has requested the PM for CBI probe so that inquiry in done in fair manner."

Meanwhile, the state police has rubbished the claims of the woman that MLA is being favored in the ongoing investigation.

Arun Mohan Joshi, SSP, Dehradun, said, "The police is committed for fair investigation without any bias or favour. On request of the complainant previous investigation officer was replaced as she had complained and expressed her concerns."

Gorkhas seek gazette notice on protection under Assam Accord

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

THE Gorkhas of Assam have sought a gazette notification for their inclusion for constitutional safeguards as per clause 6 of the Assam Accord.

The Accord was signed in 1985 between the Centre and the All Assam Students' Union at the end of the six-year-long bloody "Assam Agitation" or anti-immigrants' agitation.

The Accord's clause says, "Constitutional, legislative and administrative safeguards, as may be appropriate, shall be provided to protect, preserve and promote the cultural, social, linguistic identity and heritage of the Assamese people."

According to a Centre-constituted high-level committee on clause 6, 'Assamese people' are those who or whose forefathers have been citizens of India, residing in Assam, from on or before January 1, 1951.

"The Assam Accord clause 6 committee report did not mention anything about the constitutional, legislative and administrative safeguards of the Gorkhas of Assam under clause 6 of the Assam Accord," said the Bharatiya Gorkha Yuva Parisangh (BGYP), which is the youth wing of Bharatiya Gorkha Parisangh.

The report suggests that 1951 is the cut-off year for defining Assamese people whereas the Gorkhas had fought for saving their motherland Assam from Burmese invasion in 1826 that culminated in the signing of Yandabo Treaty, the BGYP said.

It said the Gorkhas were permanently settled in Assam's scheduled areas since the last part of 18th century as graziers and cultivators obtaining grazing/khuti permits.

"The Gorkhas of Assam strongly objected the conspiracy of inclusion of Assam in East Pakistan by the Muslim League during pre-independent era of India. The Gorkhas were declared as protected class by the British in 1947..." the BGYP said. The organisation said the community also contributed immensely for the preservation of Assamese language.

21 cleaners honoured with 'Nagar Nayak Samman'

In a unique initiative, 21 sanitary workers, health workers and government department personnel were conferred with the civilian title 'Nagar Nayak' (Hero of City) to honour the ideologies of Mahatma Gandhi on October 2. Initiated by youth activists Navneet Kumar and Saurabh Kumar - associated with the National Youth Gandhi Association (NYGA), the 'Nagar-Nayak' titles were conferred by Hajipur Municipal's Deputy Chairman Niket Kumar Sinha. He also gifted the Gandhi's biography and a life insurance cover of ₹2L to the cleaners, which was provided by NYGA.

M-passport App launched for quick online verification

In order to make the passport verification by police easy and swift, the Bihar police recently launched an app – m-Passport Police App and 1,308 tablets were allotted to all police stations in the state. At present, the passport verification is carried out by this app in other states like Tamil Nadu, Maharashtra, Karnataka, Punjab, Chandigarh and partially in UP and West Bengal. The cops now digitally verify the photos. In Bihar, 1,12,934 passports have been issued so far, said official sources. The Haryana Police also uses the application.

Trafficking: Rescued child labourers launch drive

In a first, a group of 25 cycle-riding rescued child labourers campaigned in Bihar's Gaya district against the sudden spike of child-trafficking. They also created awareness among the people for not engaging children in works instead send them in schools. They campaigned under the banner of 'Vijeta.' The child-labour survivors, led by Ashish Kumar, president of Vijeta, submitted a memorandum to the district magistrate of Gaya demanding to free the district from child labourers, identify the active traffickers of children, and rehabilitate the rescued children from factories.

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

AHEAD of the Ladakh Autonomous Hill Development Council (LAHDC)-Leh polls in Ladakh Union Territory, the BJP has suffered setback in the cold desert as over 300 workers including two former councilors and some core members have resigned from the party.

The saffron party has dropped some former councilors and given tickets to new faces for the LAHDC-Leh polls which would be held in 26 seats on October 16. It has angered the workers and former councilors, who have been left out.

The BJP's former councilor from Saspol constituency Tsering Angdus announced his resignation a few days back. Another former BJP councilor Lobzang Nyantak also quit the party. The LADHC-Leh comprises 30 members – 26 elected and four nominated. In the outgoing LAHDC-Leh, BJP had 18 councillors.

Among those who resigned from the party includes BJP vice president Leh Sonam Ponchuk Wanla

In his resignation letter, Sonam wrote, "I have found working for BJP a matter of great pride and endless satisfaction for myself. However, I am finding it difficult to reconcile with the current functioning of the party."

Two more senior party members Manzoor Hussain and Mumtaz Hussain also resigned to protest alleged favouritism in allotment of tickets for the council polls. "The party did not choose right candidates from some constituencies and resorted to favouritism. We cannot support those candidates and have decided to quit the party," they wrote in their resignation letter.

The BJP's core member in Ladakh Syeda Ladakhi, who was a nominated councilor in the outgoing LAHDC Leh has also resigned from the party.

Rape victim writes to PM against MLA

VINEET UPADHYAY @Dehradun

WOMAN who has accused Uttarakhand's sitting BJP MLA Mahesh Negi of raping her and fathering her child has now written to Prime Minister Narendra Modi demanding a CBI probe in the case.

In her four-page letter, the woman accused the BJP government in the state and police of trying to shield the accused MLA.

SP Singh, lawyer of the woman said, "The letter and been sent to the honorable Prime Minister voting state police's biasness towards MLA. She has requested the PM for CBI probe so that inquiry in done in fair manner."

Meanwhile, the state police has rubbished the claims of the woman that MLA is being favored in the ongoing investigation.

Arun Mohan Joshi, SSP, Dehradun, said, "The police is committed for fair investigation without any bias or favour. On request of the complainant previous investigation officer was replaced as she had complained and expressed her concerns."

Gorkhas seek gazette notice on protection under Assam Accord

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Guwahati

THE Gorkhas of Assam have sought a gazette notification for their inclusion for constitutional safeguards as per clause 6 of the Assam Accord.

The Accord was signed in 1985 between the Centre and the All Assam Students' Union at the end of the six-year-long bloody "Assam Agitation" or anti-immigrants' agitation.

The Accord's clause says, "Constitutional, legislative and administrative safeguards, as may be appropriate, shall be provided to protect, preserve and promote the cultural, social, linguistic identity and heritage of the Assamese people."

According to a Centre-constituted high-level committee on clause 6, 'Assamese people' are those who or whose forefathers have been citizens of India, residing in Assam, from on or before January 1, 1951.

"The Assam Accord clause 6 committee report did not mention anything about the constitutional, legislative and administrative safeguards of the Gorkhas of Assam under clause 6 of the Assam Accord," said the Bharatiya Gorkha Yuva Parisangh (BGYP), which is the youth wing of Bharatiya Gorkha Parisangh.

The report suggests that 1951 is the cut-off year for defining Assamese people whereas the Gorkhas had fought for saving their motherland Assam from Burmese invasion in 1826 that culminated in the signing of Yandabo Treaty, the BGYP said.

It said the Gorkhas were permanently settled in Assam's scheduled areas since the last part of 18th century as graziers and cultivators obtaining grazing/khuti permits.

"The Gorkhas of Assam strongly objected the conspiracy of inclusion of Assam in East Pakistan by the Muslim League during pre-independent era of India. The Gorkhas were declared as protected class by the British in 1947..." the BGYP said. The organisation said the community also contributed immensely for the preservation of Assamese language.

21 cleaners honoured with 'Nagar Nayak Samman'

In a unique initiative, 21 sanitary workers, health workers and government department personnel were conferred with the civilian title 'Nagar Nayak' (Hero of City) to honour the ideologies of Mahatma Gandhi on October 2. Initiated by youth activists Navneet Kumar and Saurabh Kumar - associated with the National Youth Gandhi Association (NYGA), the 'Nagar-Nayak' titles were conferred by Hajipur Municipal's Deputy Chairman Niket Kumar Sinha. He also gifted the Gandhi's biography and a life insurance cover of ₹2L to the cleaners, which was provided by NYGA.

Footballers of the Year by AIFF felicitated

On the occasion of 'Fit India Freedom Run' national-level footballers Sanju Yadav and Asha Lata Devi were felicitated by LC Trivedi, general manager of East Central Railway (ECR) for their extra ordinary achievements in women football. They were the declared the Footballers of the Year by the AIFF. Trivedi highlighted ECR's contributions in the field of national football championship. Under the programme, among other activities, students were asked to run or walk two kilometres daily from Sept 30 to Oct 2. The students, under the supervision of the schools, had to keep a track of the cumulative distance covered and upload the details on the Fit India portal. E-certificates of Fit India Feedom Run participation could be downloaded from the portal www.fitinida.

M-passport App launched for quick online verification

In order to make the passport verification by police easy and swift, the Bihar police recently launched an app – m-Passport Police App and 1,308 tablets were allotted to all police stations in the state. At present, the passport verification is carried out by this app in other states like Tamil Nadu, Maharashtra, Karnataka, Punjab, Chandigarh and partially in UP and West Bengal. The cops now digitally verify the photos. In Bihar, 1,12,934 passports have been issued so far, said official sources. The Haryana Police also uses the application.

Trafficking: Rescued child labourers launch drive

In a first, a group of 25 cycle-riding rescued child labourers campaigned in Bihar's Gaya district against the sudden spike of child-trafficking. They also created awareness among the people for not engaging children in works instead send them in schools. They campaigned under the banner of 'Vijeta.' The child-labour survivors, led by Ashish Kumar, president of Vijeta, submitted a memorandum to the district magistrate of Gaya demanding to free the district from child labourers, identify the active traffickers of children, and rehabilitate the rescued children from factories.

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump's doctor on Saturday painted a rosy picture of the president's health as he remains hospitalized for coronavirus treatment. But that assessment was immediately contradicted by a person familiar with Trump's condition, who said the president was administered supplemental oxygen on Friday at the White House.

As well, Trump's chief of staff, Mark Meadows, said the president went through a "very concerning" period Friday and the next 48 hours will be critical in terms of his care.

The briefing by Navy Commander Dr. Sean Conley and other doctors at Walter Reed Medical Center raised more questions than it answered, as the president's physician left murky the issue of whether the president needed supplemental oxygen and declined to discuss exactly when he fell ill. Conley, in his briefing, also revealed that Trump began exhibiting "clinical indications" of Covid-19 on Thursday afternoon, earlier than known.

According to the person familiar with Trump's condition, Trump was administered oxygen at the White House on Friday before he was transported to the military hospital. The person, who was not authorized to speak publicly and spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity,

Conley had said Trump has been fever-free for 24 hours as he updated the nation on the president's condition from Walter Reed Saturday afternoon. Trump was admitted Friday after testing positive for the coronavirus and has been undergoing treatment.

While Conley said the president is not currently on oxygen, he refused to say whether the president had ever been on oxygen, despite repeated questioning. "Thursday no oxygen. None at this moment. And yesterday with the team, while we were all here, he was not on oxygen," he said. He added that Trump's symptoms, including a cough and nasal congestion, "are now resolving and improving."

The administration has consistently been less than transparent about the president's health as the virus spread inside the White House. Aides had declined to share basic health information about the president, including a full accounting of his symptoms and what tests he's undertaken. AP

Don gets drug meant to curb severe Covid illness

WASHINGTON

THE experimental antibody drug given to President Donald Trump has been called one of the most promising approaches to preventing serious illness from a COVID-19 infection.

Its maker, Regeneron Pharmaceuticals, said the company agreed to supply a single dose, given through an IV, for Trump at the request of his physician under "compassionate use" provisions, when an experimental medicine is provided on a case-by-case emergency basis, while studies of it continue.

The new drug is in late-stage testing and its safety and effectiveness are not yet known. No treatment has yet proved able to prevent serious illness after a coronavirus infection.

Trump was given the experimental drug at the White House on Friday before he was taken to Walter Reed National Military Medical Center, where he'll be monitored, officials said. So far, Trump has had only mild symptoms, including fatigue. Several physicians who treat COVID-19, including Dr. David Boulware at the University of Minnesota, had speculated that doctors might use the antibody drug, given that this approach has worked against other diseases in the past. "They're not going to just sit around and watch to see if he gets sick," Boulware said.

The drug is given as a one-time treatment through an IV. In multiple studies, Regeneron is testing it both for preventing infection and in people already infected, like Trump, to try to prevent serious illness or death. Earlier this week, Regeneron said partial results from about 275 patients who were not sick enough to need hospitalization suggested it might be cutting how long symptoms last and helping reduce the amount of virus patients harbor. AP

James Bond film pushed to 2021 in another blow to Hollywood

LOS ANGELES

THE release of the James Bond film "No Time To Die" has been delayed again, this time to 2021, because of the effects of Covid-19 on the theatrical business.

MGM, Universal and Bond producers, Michael G. Wilson and Barbara Broccoli, said on Twitter Friday that the 25th installment in the franchise will now open globally on April 2, 2021.

"No Time To Die" was originally supposed to open in April 2020 but was pushed back to Nov. 12 in the U.K. and Nov. 20 in the U.S. It was one of the first Hollywood films to abandon its release before cinemas in the U.S. shut down in mid-March because of the coronavirus pandemic.

The film from director Cary Joji Fukunaga stars Daniel Craig as 007, Rami Malek, Lashana Lynch and Ana de Armas.

In a related move, Universal moved its "F9," the ninth installment of the "Fast & Furious" franchise starring Vin Diesel to May 28. Its previous April 2 release date would have put it in direct competition with Bond.

Other major studios have made similar decisions over the past few weeks. Cinemas remain closed in New York and Los Angeles, two of North America's biggest markets.

Ticket sales for Warner Bros.' "Tenet," the first blockbuster to open in theaters worldwide after months of coronavirus-related closures, have not been as strong as hoped for in the US.

The Walt Disney Co. last week delayed the planned 2020 releases of a handful of major movies until 2021. They include Marvel's "Black Widow" and Steven Spielberg's "West Side Story." Universal delayed "Candyman" to next year.

Some major releases are still planned for 2020. They include "Wonder Woman 1984," which was pushed back to Christmas after multiple delays and Kenneth Branagh's mystery "Death on the Nile." It is now set for Dec.18. AP

Head of Thai zoo agency killed amid missing wildlife scandal

The head of Thailand's state zoological agency was shot dead Saturday as he was pursuing an investigation into the suspicious disappearance of rare animals from a zoo in a southern province. Police said that Suriya Saengpong, the director-general of the Zoological Park Organization, was shot several times in the offices of the Songkhla Zoo. Srithep said the suspected gunman, a senior official at the zoo, fled the scene of the shooting and killed himself in his living quarters. Missing animals from Songkhla Zoo became headline news in Thailand this past week when leaked documents showed a government minister was dissatisfied with an initial probe into the disappearance of a rare albino barking deer from there in February.

Embattled airline PIA sacks 54 more employees

Pakistan International Airlines has sacked 54 more employees for having fake degrees, abusing drugs and for poor performance. Of the 54 employees sacked, 7 were dismissed for tampered documents, 8 for absence, 2 for taking bribe, 4 for immoral acts and one for being intoxicated, The Dawn reported. Another two employees were removed for theft. The number of employees sacked in the last four months has gone upto 220 in a 'cleaning up' exercise following an investigation into the May 22 Karachi plane crash.

An unlikely trend of keeping ants as pets

Ants scurry around in transparent boxes stacked outside a Singaporean store that is tapping into an unlikely but growing local trend of keeping the six-legged creatures as pets. John Ye says he became fascinated with the "altruistic, compassionate" creepy-crawlies after receiving some as a gift from his brother-in-law. The 41-year-old eventually ditched a job in electronics distribution to open "Just Ants" in January and cater to fellow enthusiasts. "I wish to have a place where people can gather and share insights, and share their ant-keeping journey," Ye said. The shop sells ant farms along with specialist equipment, including mini handheld vacuums for catching the insects, tiny feeding dishes and mealworms used as feed. It stocks 30 to 40 species, sourced from ant-keepers.

UN, NGOs shaken by DR Congo abuse claims

KINSHASA

THE humanitarian world has pledged to combat the scourge of sexual abuse within its ranks following shock revelations of alleged exploitation in the Democratic Republic of Congo.

In a report published this week, more than 50 women levelled accusations against aid workers from the World Health Organization (WHO), other UN agencies and major non-governmental organisations during the 2018-2020 Ebola crisis in the volatile eastern DR Congo.

A year-long investigation by the Thomson Reuters Foundation and The New Humanitarian contained allegations of sexual exploitation, including propositioning women, forcing them to have sex in exchange for a job, or terminating contracts when they refused.

"The largest number of accusations -- made by 30 women -- involved men who identified themselves as being with the WHO," the report said.

The WHO insisted Friday it was taking the "horrific" allegations "deadly seriously" and had launched an investigation.

The other UN agencies accused -- the International Organization for Migration and the UN Children's Fund UNICEF -- plus NGOs cited have done likewise.

The Congolese authorities and civil society have joined the chorus of outrage.

"On behalf of the government, I condemn this kind of attitude," said government spokesman David Jolino Makelele. AFP

1 dead as Karabakh's main city shelled

STEPANAKERT

ARMENIAN and Azerbaijani forces were engaged in fierce clashes Saturday as fighting over the disputed Nagorno-Karabakh region intensified after its main city came under heavy shelling.

The leader of the breakaway province said he was heading to the front and that the "final battle" for the region had begun, seven days after new fighting erupted in the decades-old dispute.

Armenia's defence ministry said Karabakh's separatist forces had repelled a "massive attack" by Azerbaijan in one area of the frontline and had launched a counter-offensive.

"Heavy fighting is ongoing on other flanks," defence ministry spokeswoman Shushan Stepanyan said.

Azerbaijan's defence ministry said its forces had "captured new footholds" and that the Armenians had "suffered serious losses in manpower and military hardware".

The clashes came after the regional capital Stepanakert came under artillery and rocket fire on Friday. AFP journalists in the city heard more explosions on Saturday morning.

Residents hid in shelters and on Saturday were clearing up wreckage and sweeping up the shattered glass windows of their homes and shops.

A policeman stands in front of an apartment building that was supposedly damaged by recent shelling in Nagorno-Karabakh main city of Stepanakert | AFP

"This is a great sorrow for our community, for our people," Nelson Adamyan, a 65-year-old electrician, told AFP outside his damaged residential building.

"But we will stand for our freedom, we will always be free."

At least one person was reported killed in the shelling.

Both sides have been accused of hitting civilian areas, with Azerbaijan saying Saturday that Armenian artillery had shelled 19 of its settlements overnight.

The new fighting erupted last Sunday and mounting international calls for a halt to the hostilities and a return to negotiations over the dispute have gone unanswered. AFP

BREXIT TALKS

Boris Johnson upbeat on EU deal ahead of crucial negotiations

LONDON

BRITISH Prime Minister Boris Johnson said Saturday that "there's a good deal to be done" with the European Union on post-Brexit trade, as he prepared for crunch talks with the head of the bloc's executive arm.

Johnson told reporters that the UK wants a free trade deal along the lines of the one the EU has with Canada, but is also prepared for negotiations to fail.

He and European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen will try to break an impasse in negotiations during a videocall later Saturday.

Britain left the EU politically in January after more than 45 years of membership, but remains economically tied to the bloc until a Brexit transition period ends on Dec. 31.

The two parties are trying to strike a rudimentary trade deal before then, to avoid a barrage of uncertainty, tariffs and red tape that would hurt economies on both sides.

But while negotiators have inched close to agreement in many areas during six months of talks, they remain deadlocked over European fishing boats' access to UK waters, and over the level of support governments can give to industry. The EU is concerned that British plans to subsidize sectors such as technology will amount to unfair competition.

"We should not forget that we have made progress on many, many different fields. But, of course, the most difficult ones are still completely open," von der Leyen said Friday. "We want a deal because we think it is better to have a deal as neighbors — also, on top of these COVID times with devastating impact on the economies," she said. "But not at any price."

> We're resolved on either course, we're prepared for either course and we'll make it work, but it's very much up to our friends and partners
> British Prime Minister Boris Johnson

Johnson says an Oct. 15-16 EU summit is effectively the deadline for a deal if it is to be ratified by year's end, though EU officials think talks may drag on beyond then.

Johnson insists that Britain will thrive even if it ends the transition period without a deal. But economists say it would be a heavy blow, introducing tariffs and other barriers to trade with the EU, which accounts for almost half of the UK's trade.

Talks have been soured by Britain's decision last month to introduce a bill that breaches the legally binding divorce agreement. AP

At least 15 killed in Afghan bomb attack

JALALABAD: At least 15 people, mostly civilians, were killed and more than 40 others wounded in a truck bomb attack that targeted a government building in eastern Afghanistan on Saturday, officials said. A suicide bomber detonated the vehicle full of explosives at the entrance of an administrative building that also housed some military facilities in the Ghani Khel district of Nangarhar province, the governor's spokesman Attaullah Khogyani told AFP. "As a result, 13 civilians including one woman and four children were killed. Two members of security forces were also killed," he said.

India unlocks, but revival for MSMEs remains patchy

Majority of these firms yet to touch half of pre-pandemic level sales

JAYANTA ROY CHOWDHURY
@ New Delhi

ASHISH Banerjee, director of Faridabad-based SSP Pvt. Ltd., a ₹180-crore turnover maker of industrial dryers and dairy equipment, is a worried man. The homegrown rival to global giant Alfa Laval, is finding it difficult to complete orders and get payments. Machinery for plants in Vietnam and Egypt lie idle at SSP's factory as these have to be sent along with teams of technicians who will set them up on site.

"Orders worth more than ₹100 crore can't be completed as travel to these destinations is impossible now," said Banerjee. The domestic market is sluggish and selling machines to buyers has been tough.

SSP is just one of tens of thousands of firms, mostly in the MSME sector, facing problems ranging from restrictions to low demand and credit issues, despite India going in for 'Unlock 5', the fifth tranche of a plan which promises to open more sectors to help India's GDP get back its mojo after contracting by nearly 24 per cent in the April-June quarter.

A survey done by Care Ratings called 'Unlock India - State of Business', shows that while majority of large scale enterprises said they had reached at least 50 per cent of production compared to pre-Covid levels, a majority of medium, small and micro enterprises said they had reached less than half their per-Covid period sales.

The patchy growth story where large firms have recovered faster, while smaller ones still struggle is at the root of the problem, say analysts. MSMEs account for 30 per cent of GDP, 120 million jobs and 45 per cent of exports. Their revival could be the key to Unlock India's success.

"MSMEs are facing a time lag in pick up for demand ... Many of them supply to larger firms who will increase their demand only when they reach full capacity," said N R Bhanumurthy, Vice Chancellor of Dr B.R Ambedkar School of Economics University, Bengaluru.

"It's true restrictions and credit flow remain concerns for many firms ... but the government is helping out there by guaranteeing credit to MSMEs," said Sanjay Bhattacharyya, former Managing Director, State Bank of India.

Despite schemes for guaranteeing and augmenting flow of credit to the MSME sector, the survey said 76 per cent of micro and 45 small and medium firms faced credit availability issues. However, September reported one of the fastest growth in Purchasing Managers Index (PMI) at 56.8. The Nikkei PMI calculated by IHS Markit, considers values above 50 as signifying growth in economic activity. "There is hope for the days ahead, we do see a positive trend," noted Bhanumurthy.

Flipkart enables MSMEs surmount Covid-19 crisis

Homegrown e-commerce major Flipkart said that its six-day flagship event of the year— Big Billion Days Sale — which will commence October 16 will set a platform for millions of sellers, artisans, and brands to come together while also providing growth opportunities to MSMEs and sellers across the country. It has already onboarded several sellers and seeks to support them with insights in matters of product cataloguing, advertising and speed, the e-tailer said.

CHOKING NGO SECTOR WITH THE FCRA AMENDMENT

IN all the hurly burly of the passage of the 3 farmers bills, and the all-India protests that followed, the important changes brought in by the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Amendment Act, 2020 have been buried. The amendment is an attempt to choke the free functioning of NGOs. More worrisome is the legislation reflects the present regime's deep suspicion of private intervention in development work.

It is perhaps the pandemic that has best brought out the importance of private, collective intervention as the first line of defense, much before the lumbering government machinery reaches those in need. In the early months of total lockdown in Mumbai, an NGO - Mumbai First - reached food kits to over 2 lakh families whose breadwinners were without a job. Elsewhere, other NGOs have reached out with medical aid, and provided PPE suits to struggling government doctors.

The government's main reasoning for straight jacketing civil players is: first, to achieve greater accountability through elaborate monitoring, and second, stymieing 'misuse' of funds for suspect, anti-national activity. On accountability, the unamended act is as it is a piece of over-regulation. Every, foreign donation has to be reported, and failure to file regular returns can result in summary cancellation of the FCRA certificate, and thereby access to foreign funds.

HITTING WHERE IT HURTS

The bigger issue is the 'misuse' of funds. The government's case is that international money is being funneled into the country in the name of development; but diverted for religious conversions and to whip up anti-government protests.

The most immediate 'victim' of this line of thinking is Amnesty International, whose bank accounts were frozen on 10 September for violations of the FCRA provisions. Soon after, the organization announced it was shutting its operations in the country.

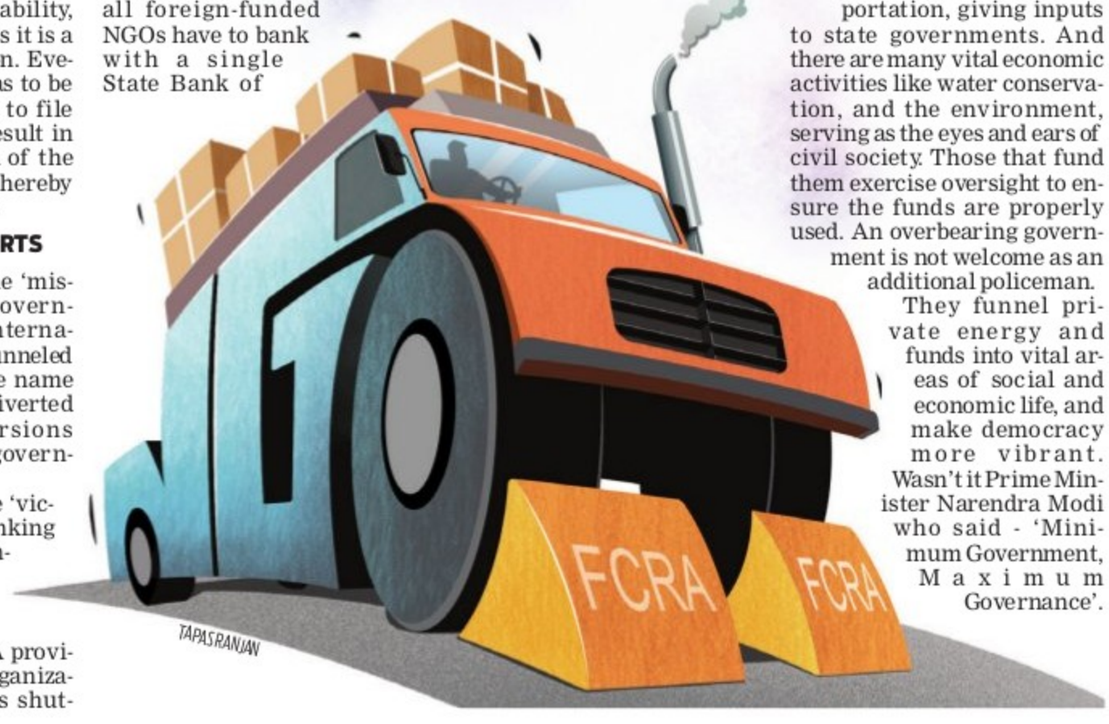
A look at the 3 or 4 main provisions of the amended act shows it is directed to make the functioning of non-governmental organizations as difficult as possible by squeezing them where it hurts. First, it bars an NGO from redistribution of its funds to other organizations, even if they are FCRA compliant. NGOs for years have functioned as networks, with smaller ones being supported by the larger, better-funded organizations. Without this networking option, many of the smaller ones will find it difficult to survive.

Second, the amendment has brought down the permitted spend on 'administrative' expenses to 20% of receipts from the current level of 50%. Vital areas like research, and setting up strategy teams will now be a no-no. More perturbing is a new provision where all foreign-funded NGOs have to bank with a single State Bank of India (SBI) branch in New Delhi, presumably to allow for strict monitoring. What was the need for this? Tracing bank details of every foreign transfer in a digital age is hardly a problem.

Public servants now cannot be part of organizations that receive foreign funds. The Act also gives the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) powers to suspend FCRA certificates for more than 180 days, without specifying an upper limit.

DOUBLE STANDARDS

What stands out starkly is the double standards of government. The PM CARES Fund has received exemptions from compliance with FCRA provisions, even though the Fund is headed by the Prime Minister, has several Cabinet ministers as trustees and is administered by officials from the PMO's office.



Again the biggest NGOs - the country's political parties - are running establishments that are not accountable to anyone. Electoral bonds, legalized in January 2018, are an instrument to raise funds for political parties where donors can buy bonds cashable only by the receiving party. The system is completely opaque as the donors remain anonymous. No surprise again, of the ₹2,772 crore raised over 2 years, the ruling BJP cornered 95% of the funds.

In FY2019, there were 22,447 NGOs registered under the FCRA Act, of which nearly 98% complied with the filing of returns. This is not to say that these organizations have unblemished records. NGOs have been fronts of racketeers engaged in siphoning off funds meant for public causes. There have been documented histories of foreign spies working through missionary organizations in border areas.

But we cannot tar them all with the same brush.

There are hundreds of NGOs working to bring primary education and health to tribal children, areas where no government official has bothered to reach. There are those in urban transportation, giving inputs to state governments. And there are many vital economic activities like water conservation, and the environment, serving as the eyes and ears of civil society. Those that fund them exercise oversight to ensure the funds are properly used. An overbearing government is not welcome as an additional policeman.

They funnel private energy and funds into vital areas of social and economic life, and make democracy more vibrant. Wasn't it Prime Minister Narendra Modi who said - 'Minimum Government, Maximum Governance'.

Goyal bats for FTAs with developed countries

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

COMMERCE and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal on Saturday said that to get access to a larger global market, India needs to collaborate with developed countries with larger market access like the US and EU.

"India can certainly be part of a global chain. We have to foster such collaborations with the developed countries which have large markets, and not nations like Chile and Peru," Goyal said, while addressing a webinar organised by EXIM Bank. The minister added that instead of Free Trade Agreements (FTAs) with Latin American and African countries, the country requires out of the box ideas like an FTA with the US so that it pitches itself against world class standards.

"We need to penetrate the developed world," he added. This comes against the backdrop of the government's attempt to review existing FTAs. Goyal, during his virtual conference with members of ASEAN on August 29, said his single focus was to review the ASEAN India Trade in Goods Agreement. The progress, however, remains slow. India is already trying to conclude FTA with the EU, Britain and US.

At the event, Goyal reiterated that India has the capability to become a global player in many sectors and needs to scale up its manufacturing activities and to become globally competitive. Signalling that the government might not extend any subsidies for exports, he said that exports will definitely happen automatically if "products are good and competitively priced".

Industries should not expect that subsidies will be the "only solution". "There is no need to segregate between products for exports and the domestic sector. We require quality, good technology and scale, though some support may be needed at times," Goyal noted.

Luxury carmakers gear up for festive season with new launches

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

PINNING hopes on the festive season to spur demand, luxury automobile companies— Mercedes, Audi and BMW — are set to launch their popular models in the Indian market in October. The industry has lost significant volume during the pandemic. In August 2020, retail luxury sales contracted by over 40 per cent to 1,247 units.

German automaker Audi, on Saturday, said that bookings for its Q2 SUV are now open at dealer showrooms and on the company's website against a payment of ₹2 lakh. Audi's smallest SUV, the Q2, will have no direct rivals in the Indian market as it is significantly smaller than Mercedes GLA and BMW X1.

Balbir Singh Dhillon, Head of Audi India, said, "Our fifth launch for the year, the Audi Q2 is an extremely important product for India as it opens up a new segment of buyers for the brand...I am confident that young buyers who want to join the Audi family early on will be amazed by the performance of this car." Dhillon added, "2020 has been an exciting year for Audi India despite the unfortunate pandemic and its challenges. Our product launches including the Audi Q8, Audi A8 L, Audi RS 7 and Audi RS Q8 have been very well received.

The SUV is expected to hit Indian roads later part of the month at a price tag of around ₹30-35 lakhs, making it its most affordable product.

BMW India, too, will be launching its smallest four-door offering that is also one of its most affordable , the 2 Series Gran Coupe on October 15. The Coupe will be positioned below the 3 Series sedans and will compete with the likes of the Mercedes-Benz A-Class sedan in India. BMW is expected to price the 2 Series Gran Coupe around the ₹35 lakh (ex-showroom) mark. Separately, BMW has also announced to increase prices by up to 3 per cent from November 1, 2020. BMW will also be launching new G 310 R and G 310 GS bikes on October 8 to increase its presence in the f sub-500 cc segment.

Mercedes will become the first luxury automaker to introduce an all-electric model in India with the launch of Mercedes-Benz EQC on October 8, 2020.

Roots Ventures bets big on niche consumer start-ups, to invest ₹100 cr

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

WHILE sectors like health and e-commerce have seen significant investments during the pandemic, venture capitalists (VCs) are now looking for portfolios in alternative verticals with consumer awareness as a prime concern. Similarly, Roots Ventures has recently raised ₹200 crore and has announced an initial investment of ₹100 crore. Co-founder Ravinder Vashist, tells The New Indian Express, that the fund closed 10 deals and is now keen on funding companies in the EV, clean air, energy savings and agriculture sectors. Some of the portfolio companies of Roots Ventures include ayurvedic beauty brand Just Herbs, luxury premium products discovery platform Smytten, among others. Excerpts:

What are the "unconventional sectors" which Roots Ventures is focussing on?
We don't suffer from FOMO (fear of missing out) of investing in "hot" sectors. Increasing consciousness towards the environment is percolating in mobility options like electric vehicles, clean air, energy savings etc. Sustainable business models in these sectors are of interest to us. Agricultural reforms undertaken by the government recently are also expected to unleash the potential of the sector. We are now expecting a growing entrepreneurial activity in the harvesting and the entire post-harvest supply chain.

Can you please tell us about the deals that were sealed during Covid-19?
We have been investing post our first close and have completed 10 deals so far. We have invested across consumer tech, consumer brands and technology-enabled consumer ancillary businesses like logistics and remittances. Almost two-third of our disbursed portfolio has seen up round within a year of our investment and 75 per cent of the portfolio is either at or above pre-Covid revenues.

Funding activity is picking up... Is the worst behind us?
Investment activity has gone up... but are still subdued on a y-o-y basis. Reports suggest that August recorded VC/PE deals worth $1.9 bn compared to $4.3 bn in August 2019.

'September data showing credible signs of growth'

New Delhi: The Finance Ministry on Saturday said September has exhibited 'credible signs' of economic growth towards normalcy and the government is not averse to taking any further measures to ameliorate the suffering of people. "Earnest efforts made by the government in last few months... have now started showing the green shoots," the ministry said.

125 nations registered for RAISE 2020

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Ministry of Electronics and Information technology (MEITY) on Saturday unveiled RAISE 2020 – a Global Virtual Summit on Artificial Intelligence (AI). So far, more than 38,700 stakeholders from academia, the research industry and government representatives from 125 countries have registered to participate in RAISE 2020.

The aim of the summit is to kick-start discussion on the creation of robust AI-powered public infrastructure that benefits all, not just in India but across the world, said MEITY. Over the five-day summit, several leading AI experts will deliberate over topics of vital importance like strategies for using AI for social benefit, the importance of creating reliable AI infrastructure and the transformative effect of AI in empowering communities.

Amitabh Kant, CEO, NITI Aayog said, "India is developing AI-based solutions for social empowerment across spheres like healthcare, education, finance, agriculture and governance. On the strength of its data and innovation prowess, India can become the AI laboratory of the world.

Mane tests positive for coronavirus

Liverpool's in-form Senegalese forward Sadio Mane has tested positive for Covid-19 and is self-isolating, the club said Friday. "Sadio Mane has tested positive for Covid-19 and is currently self-isolating according to the necessary guidelines," Liverpool said in a statement.

Master mind behind Samad's big break

Mentor Irfan Pathan recounts counselling sessions, something that has helped J&K all-rounder to do well in pressure-situations

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

BACKING the youngster from Jammu and Kashmir, Hyderabad skipper David Warner tosses the ball to Abdul Samad to bowl the final over with Chennai needing 28 to win on Friday night. Despite the fact that one of the best finishers of the game MS Dhoni is at the crease, the Aussie opener is confident.

So was Mohammad Farooq, Samad's father, who was glued to his television set at his home in Sidhra town of Jammu.

But the confidence gave way to some tense moments as the legbreak bowler sent the first ball down the leg side that went past all the fielders for five wides. "With that, the equation came down to 23 off 6 and I knew Dhoni could do it. But he (Samad) remained calm and delivered what was expected of him," father Farooq told this daily.

The father was tensed but Samad wasn't. "I spoke to him today (Saturday) and he said the plan was to bring Dhoni out of the crease so that he could be stumped. Those five extras didn't bother him at all as he told me he was confident of defending the remaining runs. Even Dhoni told him 'well bowled' after the match," added Farooq.

Spotted by former India all-rounder Irfan Pathan in 2018, the then 16-year-old was soon fast-tracked into senior cricket. He made his T20 debut, hammering an unbeaten 51-ball 76 against Nagaland in the 2018-19 Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy to hand J&K a 9-wicket win.

Heaping praise on his mentee, Pathan said: "All the credit goes to him and his character. He is a fearless guy and that's his biggest asset. Even if he gets out, he is the guy who will smack it again. When you play at this level, you need to believe in yourself. He has shown in these first two IPL games that he is capable of doing great things," Pathan told this daily.

But the transformation from under-19 cricket to senior side and IPL didn't happen in a day. It took a lot of counselling from Pathan to make sure Samad met those expectations. "For him to make a jump from U-19 cricket to first-class cricket was a big jump. He didn't even play the U-19 cricket for a long time. So for us, it was like everyday counselling making sure that he goes through a lot of good stuff, hard word and shows some urgency in bowling and batting. Generally to make him understand what it requires to be a really good cricketer rather than a cricketer who just plays U-19 cricket or first-class cricket. I want him to play IPL, play for India. He has already played IPL and started really well," opined Pathan. Before that final over, the 18-year-old had bowled three overs claiming the wicket of Kedar Jadhav and conceding only 21 runs. "I am sure the ball was wet and the way he managed the last over it was brilliant. More than the last over, the 15th over he bowled, that could have changed the game, but he only gave away 8 runs against the likes of MSD and Jadeja that was crucial," Pathan said.

Farooq, an employee of department of youth services and sports, once harboured dreams of playing cricket for J&K and the country. The medium pacer, however, couldn't achieve his dream but ensured everything so that his two sons — Tayyab and Samad — could pursue their passion of playing cricket.

"I shifted from Kala Kot to Sidhra in 2009 so that my sons can get good education and also opportunities to play cricket. But again this wouldn't have been possible without Irfan bhai as he was the one who spotted Samad and guided him day in and day out to make him the cricketer he is today. All credit goes to him and Parvez Rasool, the J&K skipper."

Given the way he maintained his composure in that tense final over, Samad looks ready for some more memorable performances this IPL.

KXIP VS CSK HEAD-TO-HEAD | KINGS XI 13 CSK 9

SEEKING SHOT IN THE ARM

Two teams desperately in need of a pick me up after five losses between them over the last nine days. Here's a look at some talking points between Kings XI Punjab and Chennai Super Kings...

PUNJAB'S SHODDY DEATH BOWLING

Punjab's bowlers have conceded at an economy rate of 15.33 runs an over at the death (16-20) this year. That's unsustainable. It's also why they have lost three matches KL Rahul & Co. need a rethink.

CHENNAI'S TOP-ORDER WOES

If Punjab's top-order turns water into wine, the Men in Yellow do the opposite. Sample this: in the four matches, the openers have, put together, aggregated 106 in 110 balls with 11 4s and 6 5s. Those numbers just aren't good enough and the franchise has to contemplate opening with the likes of Sam Curran to arrest this serious lack of momentum at the top.

Maximum temperature during the match.

MI VS SRH

HEAD-TO-HEAD | MI 7 | SRH 7

After starting slowly, Sunrisers Hyderabad have found some balance. Against the might of Mumbai Indians, they will try to make it three wins on the bounce. Here's a look at the talking points...

MUMBAI'S BATTING VS HYDERABAD'S BOWLING

In a sea of somewhat pedestrian middle-order batting, Mumbai have come out trumps thanks to their power-hitters. In fact,they are the only side to have scored 160+ in all matches so far. In Sharjah, they could zoom past that if Hyderabad, whose bowlers are yet to concede over 165 in a game, take their eye of the ball.

WHAT'S EATING HYDERABAD'S OPENERS

18, 24, 77, 1. If 2019 was all about their consistency, 2020 has been different. Both of them have had failures and have exposed that flaky middle order early in three of the four matches. On the contrary, the postage-sized ground in Sharjah could be an ideal ground for these two to string an invaluable partnership.

Kohli leads from front as Bangalore post third win

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

ROYAL Challengers Bangalore's Devdutt Padikkal (63) alongside skipper Virat Kohli (72 not out) steered the team to victory against Rajasthan Royals in Abu Dhabi on Saturday. It was their third win in four IPL games. Chasing 155, Kohli & Co won by eight wickets. The duo stitched a 99-run partnership for the second wicket. The Karnataka opener has so far hit three fifties in four matches and has looked in fine touch. His innings on Saturday comprised six fours and one six. Bangalore will also heave a sigh of relief with Kohli getting back into his form. After scoring 18 in first three matches, he scored an unbeaten fifty against Steve Smith & Co.

Brief scores: Rajasthan 154/6 in 20 ovs (Lomror 47; Chahal 3/24) lost to Bangalore 158/2 in 19.1 ovs (Kohli 72 n.o, Padikkal 63).

Delhi emerge winners in another Sharjah thriller

IN another high-scoring drama in Sharjah, Eoin Morgan and Rahul Tripathi launched another turnaround in the death overs to take Kolkata Knight Riders within kissing distance of Delhi Capitals' mammoth total of 228. However, the duo perished in the last couple of overs as the two-time champions eventually fell short by 18 runs. Losing early wickets, KKR seemed out of breath till the 15th over when the duo set the stage on fire. Earlier, Delhi, riding on blazing half-centuries from skipper Shreyas Iyer (88 not out) and Prithvi Shaw (66), posted a huge total of 228/4. Brief scores: Delhi 228/4 in 20 ovs (Iyer 88 n.o, Shaw 66; Russell 2/29) bt Kolkata 210/8 (Rana 58, Morgan 44, Tripathi 36; Nortje 3/33).

IPL player reports approach

NEW DELHI: A cricketer, competing in the IPL in the UAE, has "reported a corrupt approach", putting BCCI's anti-corruption unit (ACU) on a high alert. BCCI ACU chief Ajit Singh confirmed it. "Yes (a player has reported aproach)," Singh, the former DGP of Rajasthan Police confirmed.

Watch out for Rafa

Rafael Nadal has not wasted much time, beating three rivals. Apart from his game, a watch worth over $1 million, has caught the eye of many.

The custom-made watch (RM27-04), made by luxury watchmakers Richard Mille, has steel cable across the face, making it look like a tennis racket. It is a limited edition with just 50 pieces.

The watch can withstand accelerations of 12,000 g's.

The use of grade 5 titanium to make baseplate and bridges makes it robust, something that meets Nadal's requirements. The watch weighs just 30 grams.

SELECT RESULTS (RD 3)

Men: Altmaier (GER) bt Berrettini (ITA x7) 6-2, 7-6 (7/5), 6-4; Rublev (RUS x13) bt Anderson (RSA) 6-3, 6-2, 6-3. Women: Jabeur (TUN x30) bt Sabalenka (BLR x8) 7-6 (9/7), 2-6, 6-3; Kenin (USA x4) bt Maria Bara (ROU) 6-2, 6-0.

EASY FOR KENIN, JABEUR MAKES HISTORY

Paris: American fourth seed and Australian Open champion Sofia Kenin made the last 16 at Roland Garros on Saturday with a 6-2, 6-0 defeat of Romanian qualifier Irina Bara. Tunisia's Ons Jabeur became the first Arab woman to make the last 16 at Roland Garros with a 7-6 (9/7), 2-6, 6-3 win over Belarusian eighth seed Aryna Sabalenka. Jabeur, seeded 30, who made the quarterfinals at the Australian Open in January, is a former junior champion in the French capital. In the men's section, German qualifier Daniel Altmaier, ranked at 186 in the world, stunned seventh seed Matteo Berrettini of Italy to reach last 16 with a hat-tip to Stan Wawrinka, Rocky and early morning Zoom calls. The 22-year-old triumphed 6-2, 7-6 (7/5), 6-4, becoming just the fourth man since 2000 to reach the round of 16 on his Grand Slam debut. Victory also means an unexpected financial windfall for the German who is guaranteed to make at least $221,400 by reaching the last 16 having earned just $173,600 in his entire six-year professional career. SAI puts out SOP for recovered athletes

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

Covid +ve players' rehab plan soon?

RESUMPTION of sports during a pandemic has its risks too. The Sports Authority of India (SAI) has already begun conducting national camps in NIS Patiala, Bengaluru, New Delhi and Sonepat. It has its sights on more camps in October too. With more and more athletes joining, there are possibilities of more athletes testing positive for coronavirus.

Take the case of men's hockey team. Six players tested positive, including Surender Kumar who had more than a mild infection. There have been cases in wrestling camps too. As reported by this daily on September 11, SAI has formulated Standard Operating Procedure for rehabilitating athletes testing positive. "Under the new guidelines, termed 'Graduated Return to Play' (GRTP), all SAI officials and centres have been asked to monitor the progression of athletes who have tested positive for Covid-19 virus," said a SAI statement.

As reported, the cases will be divided into asymptomatic and symptomatic (mild, moderate and severe). It also speaks about coaches' responsibility for recovering athletes. Though finer details are not listed, Ashok Ahuja, former head of sports medicine at NIS Patiala, felt this is an integral part of training now. "This plan is a necessity," he said. "It must be a comprehensive plan but I believe mental health is another aspect we need to look at. Psychological counselling is a must because studies show spending time in isolation and quarantine do affect athletes mentally."

According to Ahuja, a broad outline may have been designed but strict monitoring will be key. "The athletes should be monitored while exercising — heart rate variability to blood pressure," he said. "Increasing load needs to be gradual and I think this must be taken care of. I believe 6-8 weeks of monitoring must be done to recovering athletes (more with symptomatic but even asymptomatic also). Those monitoring should look out for fatigue and muscle pain — some common symptoms during recovery. We cannot afford to risk any Olympic hopefuls." One issue the SAI must address is lack of doctors and physios in most of its centres.

Chelsea hammer Palace in PL

AFP @ London

BEN Chilwell scored his first Chelsea goal as the defender's display on his Premier League debut for the Blues inspired a 4-0 thrashing of Crystal Palace on Saturday.

Chilwell's thumping finish put Chelsea ahead soon after half-time and he provided the assist for Kurt Zouma's header as the Blues doubled their lead. Jorginho added a pair of late penalties for Chelsea to complete the rout, although the second caused some angst for Tammy Abraham as the Blues striker argued with Cesar Azpilicueta about who should take it before losing the heated debate with his captain.

That spat shouldn't take the gloss off a composed display from Chelsea, who bounced back from their midweek League Cup defeat against Tottenham and ended a run of two successive league games without a win.

In ray of hope to identify asymptomatic people, researchers from California Institute of Technology have developed a new test with a low-cost sensor that may enable the at-home diagnosis of a Covid infection through rapid analysis of small volumes of saliva or blood, without the involvement of a medical professional, in less than 10 minutes.

Oxford vaccine could be rolled out within 6 months

If approved, priority would be given to individuals over 65, followed by younger adults at higher risk, under UK's protocol on immunisation

COMING SOON?

LONDON: There is growing hope that a vaccine against coronavirus may be given the green light by health regulators by the end of this year to be rolled out for a vaccination programme in six months' time or even less, according to a UK media report.

The vaccine candidate under trial by University of Oxford scientists in collaboration with pharmaceutical giant AstraZeneca is the furthest in the process of trials and, according to a report in The Times, it could be given the required clearances by Christmas in December.

The newspaper quoted UK government sources involved in the making and distribution of vaccines as saying that a full vaccine roll-out programme for adults could take six months or less after approval.

"We are looking at closer to six months and it is likely to be far shorter than that," a government source said.

Under a protocol developed by the UK's Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation, any approved vaccine will then be given to all over 65s, followed by younger adults at higher risk, which could include those from ethnic minorities as well as those with serious health issues based on their higher risk from the deadly virus.

People over 50 will be next in line, with younger adults at the back of the queue.

The UK government has ordered 100 million doses of the Oxford vaccine once it is ready for roll-out and the doses are being manufactured before it has been shown to be successful in order to save time once it clears all the regulatory stages.

According to the newspaper report, scientists on the trial are hopeful that they will get results before the end of this year, and that they will at the very least show that it prevents 50 per cent of infections, the threshold for success.

If it is approved by the regulators, the UK's National Health Service (NHS) is said to be in a position to begin mass vaccination almost immediately. There are others within the UK government, however, who are more cautious on the timelines as vaccinating every adult is a big challenge.

A Royal Society report this week, co-authored by an Indian-origin scientist, warned of the massive uphill task ahead in producing and distributing a vaccine.

"Even when the vaccine is available, it does not mean within a month everybody will be vaccinated. We're talking about six to nine months to a year after a vaccine is approved," said Professor Nilay Shah, head of chemical engineering at Imperial College London. The report called for the criteria for vaccine prioritisation to be 'defined and made explicit' and then 'public dialogue and engagement to manage expectations and understanding of vaccine effectiveness, safety, side effects, availability, and access'.

The government's Department of Health sought to downplay the findings and stressed that its planning process will ensure a speedy roll-out.

"This study fails to reflect the enormous amount of planning and preparation that has taken place across government to quickly roll out a safe and effective Covid-19 vaccine," said a department spokesperson.

Even when the vaccine is available, it does not mean within a month everybody will be vaccinated. We're talking about six to nine months to a year after a vaccine is approved

0.5% of Earth's land surface comprises river deltas. However, they contain 4.5% of the global population

339MN people live in river deltas, the study finds

WHY ARE DELTAS AT RISK?
As river deltas form at the ocean at or below sea level, they are highly prone to storm surges. Storms are expected to occur more frequently due to climate change-fueled sea-level rise and coastal flooding

EXFILE

31 million at the risk of coastal flooding

A study published in the journal Nature Communications suggests that 31 million people living in river deltas are at high risk of flooding and other impacts from tropical cyclones and climate change. We take a look

River deltas present special challenges for predicting coastal floods that deserve more attention in discussions about the future impacts of climate change

NEW ORLEANS

FINDINGS

Many of the residents experience water, soil, and air pollution, poor and subnormal housing infrastructure, and limited access to public services

31 MILLION of the 339 million people living on deltas are living in the 100-year storm surge floodplains

92 PER CENT of the 31 million live in developing or least-developed economies, the study's findings show

CRUCIAL FINDS

Decades of engineering have expanded the habitable land area of river deltas, but they've also starved the regions of flood-preventing sediment. Without the sediment being renewed naturally, the shorelines will continue to recede, worsening the impacts of storm surges

METHODOLOGY

For the study, researchers analysed cities located in delta, including New Orleans, Bangkok and Shanghai

Researchers created a global dataset of delta populations and areas aggregating 2,174 delta locations

They then cross-referenced the dataset with a land population count to determine how many people were living in the deltas

They also calculated how many are vulnerable to a 100-year storm surge event

The researchers also measured the ability of the river deltas to naturally mitigate impacts of climate change

Namibia to auction 100 buffaloes

DROUGHT WORRIES

WINDHOEK: Drought-hit Namibia said on Friday it was putting 100 wild buffalo up for sale to reduce the animals' population, in a bid to alleviate pressure on diminishing grazing in its parks. The southern African country said the animals will come from Waterberg Plateau Park, a national reserve located in central Namibia.

"The auction is... to reduce pressure on the grazing vegetation in the park," environment ministry spokesman Romeo Muyunda told AFP. "This is also (an) intervention to manage the impact of drought in that park," added Muyunda.

The auction was first announced through adverts placed in local newspapers on Thursday.

1.6 mn hectares burned in California

INFERNO

SAN FRANCISCO: California is poised to hit a fearsome milestone: 1.6 million hectares burned this year by wildfires that have killed 31 people and incinerated hundreds of homes in what is already the worst fire season on record.

Flames have scorched an area larger than Connecticut. Fire crews at a blaze in the wine country north of San Francisco were on high alert on Friday as forecasters warned of extreme fire danger into Saturday.

Powerful winds didn't materialise early Friday, allowing fire crews a chance to make gains. But winds up to 48 kmph were forecast to push through the hills of Napa and Sonoma counties as the Glass Fire, which exploded in size earlier in the week.

BP DRUGS LOWER FLU DEATH RISK

Researchers have found that drugs to lower the blood pressure of the type 'ACE inhibitors or angiotensin II receptor blockers' reduce the mortality rate of influenza and pneumonia. For the study, published in the Journal of the American Heart Association, researchers compared mortality rates among 5,00,000 Danish patients who were admitted to hospitals in Denmark with influenza and pneumonia during the period 2005 to 2018.

RESUPPLY MISSION

Spacecraft named after Kalpana Chawla carries seeds for ISS

COSMIC FARMING

CAPE CANAVERAL: A space station cargo ship rocketed into orbit Friday carrying a 360-degree camera for spacewalking, radish seeds for growing and a smorgasbord of fancy meats and cheeses for feasting.

Northrop Grumman launched its capsule to the International Space Station (ISS) from the Virginia coast, providing a nighttime treat for observers from the Carolinas to New England.

"It was a spectacular launch," said NASA's deputy space station program manager Kenny Todd. "Creating the artificial dawn for a few minutes there, it's just gorgeous."

The 3,600-kilogramme shipment should reach the space station Monday.

Stashed aboard the Cygnus capsule: pressurised air tanks to help offset a vexing leak at the space station, a new $23 million titanium toilet custom fit for women, and a virtual reality camera to provide cinematic views of spacewalks and other outdoor shots.

Plus there's more fresh food than usual, given that the space station population will be expanding from six to seven with SpaceX's second astronaut launch on October 31.

The capsule, the SS Kalpana Chawla, is named after the first India-born woman in space. Chawla was killed in the 2003 shuttle Columbia accident.

Chawla, who dedicated her life to understanding flight dynamics, lost her life during the STS-107 mission when the space shuttle Columbia disintegrated upon re-entering Earth's atmosphere.

Among the delicacies requested by the astronauts: proscuitto, Genoa salami, smoked Gouda and provolone, brie, cherry tomatoes, oranges, pecans and chocolate-covered cranberries in plenty of time for Thanksgiving.

The astronauts also will get a chance to enjoy their own harvest. Researchers are hoping for 40 radishes from the seeds going up, within a month.
